Laundry stayed behind

The Mississippi River's rapid rise near New Madrid in the past week has caused some residents of the area to make a hurried exit. The residents of this dwelling about two miles east of New Madrid on the levee road left their laundry hanging on the line. (Daily Standard Photo by Ron Jaynes)

2 levees break as rivers rise

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Two levees in eastern Missouri failed and flooding became widespread in the West Alton and Old Monroe districts early today.

State police said the levee on the Missouri River side of West Alton was overtopped at about 4 a.m. and broke shortly after. Water approached the town of West Alton—forcing the evacuation of ten to 20 families by boat.

Corps of Engineers and volunteer workers gave up sandbagging efforts in the area.

A Civil Defense spokesman said about 10,000 acres of farmland was being flooded.

The Corps of Engineers said the levee in the Old Monroe district along the Mississippi River was also overtopped early this morning.

A spokesman said the town of Old Monroe is not in danger at this time—but that thousands of acres of farmland is inundated.

Members of Missouri National Guard units were activated late Sunday to help civilian volunteers in their efforts to hold back the flooding waters of the Mississippi, Missouri and Meramec Rivers.

Two guard units, both from St. Louis, were called out Sunday evening on orders from Gov. Christopher S. Bond.

An engineering unit was dispatched to south St. Louis where River Des Peres, a drainage ditch, was forcoming some persons to evacuate their homes. A company of military police was stationed at Arnold, Mo., to assist local authorities in their efforts to prevent looting of deserted homes along the flooding Meramec River.

At Hannibal, where the Mississippi was to crest at 24.5 feet today, about 50 guardsmen were on duty to assist in sandbagging operations. Flood stage at Hannibal is 16 feet. Fifty more guardsmen were stationed along the Mississippi in Perry County, south of St. Louis.

"We're faced with continually rising river stages and all our levees are soaked to the core," Al Swenson, of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers' flood center in St. Louis said.

"As the crests come up, we're afraid they (the levees) are going to give way," Swenson said. The flood center has been in operation since March 3 when heavy spring rains and warm temperatures caused rivers in the midwest to overflow their banks. The situation worsened as the spring thaw brought more water to tributaries in the midwest.

Federal officials estimated that 6.3 million acres of land has been flooded along the course of the Mississippi and its tributaries.

Swenson said that hundreds of persons have been evacuated from their homes.

About 28 residents of Cedar City, near Jefferson City, were evacuated along with their mobile homes Sunday night following reports that the Missouri River there was expected to rise three more feet.

At St. Charles, where sandbagging operations began a week ago, the river was reported at 34.3 feet and rising. It is expected to crest at 36 feet Thursday, one foot below a record 37.3 feet registered in 1951.

An estimated 100 mobile homes near St. Charles were threatened Sunday night by the muddy Missouri. Residents were "advised" to move their trailers because a railroad embankment might give way.

West Alton, Mo., which lies between the Missouri and Mississippi rivers, has lost thousands of acres of farmland.

The Mississippi made its way into downton Alton, Ill., Sunday closing streets in the city.

Robert Ritz, deputy Illinois Civil Defense director, reported five families were evacuated from Grafton, where the town's main street was under water.

Only 50 of Kaskaskia Island's 200 residents remain and the only access to the island is by boat or helicopter, Ritz said.

Youth murdered

PORTAGEVILLE — A 16- year- old youth, Larry Allen Williams, was murdered Saturday night and a 16- year- old juvenile is being held as a suspect by New Madrid County sheriff's department and the juvenile officer.

The body of Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Williams of 201 W. First St., was discovered at 6:15 a.m. Sunday lying in a driveway of the Herbert Cummings home at 201 W. Fourth St. He had been shot with a .22-caliber pistol seven times — once in the right temple, once in the nose, twice in the right shoulder and three times in the back.

The shooting is believed to have occurred after 9 p.m. Saturday.

Sheriff W. L. "Cowboy" Ramsey said people in the neighborhood reported they had heard the shots, but had not seen anyone in the area at the time. The Cummings family was away from home.

Sunday morning a cleaning woman who works for Dwight Smith at a laundromat noticed the youth lying in the driveway. She told Smith, who lives across the street from the Cummings home, she thought the boy might be sick and need help. Smith then went to see about the boy and found that he was

Correction

In an accident reported in Saturday's edition of The Daily Standard, names of the drivers involved were reversed.

Jimmy Null, 24, of Sikeston suffered scalp cuts when a car driven by Charles Herbst, 19, of Cape Girardeau struck his wrecker as he was attempting to pull a vehicle out of a ditch.

The accident occurred at 2:30 a.m. Saturday two miles north of Chaffee on Route M.

Saturday's account of the accident incorrectly reported that Herbst was operating the wrecker.

Chicken is best seller

Meat boycott begins

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Spaghetti, macaroni, chicken and seafood topped the Sunday dinner menus for thousands of Americans on the opening day of a week-long meat boycott protesting high meat prices.

Most meat markets were closed on Sunday, so it was hard to judge whether housewives were crossing beef, lamb and pork off their shopping lists.

President Nixon announced last Thursday night that a ceiling on the price of all beef, pork, and lamb was to go into effect today. But leaders of consumer groups said the boycott would be held anyway because the ceiling would not be effective.

Although some New York restaurants reported patrons asking for more meatless dishes than usual, a spot check of restaurants in the Chicago area showed most restaurants doing a booming business.

"Right now we've got a waiting line of 20 minutes, and I've seen a lot of steaks going by," said Frieda Marianos, service manager at a Chicago restaurant where the best steak costs $7.50.

A random sampling of Detroit area supermarkets showed customers in large numbers were avoiding meat counters.

"We've been selling chicken, that's all," said Cheri Killingsworth, a meat clerk at a Detroit food store. An assistant manager at another chain store agreed that it was "really bad."

Joining the ranks of meat boycotters in Michigan was the Rainbow People's party, formerly known as the White Panther party. A party spokesman explained, "Meat prices are criminal, and we're in favor of all political action like this."

Dolly Cole, wife of the president of General Motors, said her family wasn't boycotting meat. She added, "But I really don't think we have steak more than once every two weeks or so."

Mrs. Cole said she cut up a leftover rump roast to make hash for Sunday dinner. She said, "We like hash."

In Waterville, Maine, Pat Gorman served her family of nine a macaroni loaf made with cheese, macaroni, tuna fish, evaporated milk, onions, eggs and pimentoes. Mrs. Gorman, who helped organize the Maine boycott, said, "My husband likes spicier foods, but the kids loved it."

"I kept telling the customers that free meat is nice, but that it won't be free next week," she said.

Annexation on agenda

The City Council tonight will reconsider a proposal calling for the annexation of 1,800 acres of land to the city when it meets at 7:30 p.m. in the City Administrative Building.

The proposal was tabled at the council's March meeting when a group of affected landowners complained about the annexation.

The tabled proposal called for annexing 1,200 acres north of the Jaycee Bootheel Rodeo grounds and two smaller tracts of land, including a 1,000- foot strip of land along Keystone Drive on which the Cummins Diesel Sales Corp. is located and the LaValle property along Highway 60.

Since the last council meeting, some of the property belonging to landowners who did not want it to be annexed has been dropped from the proposal and about 369 acres between the north city limits and Tanner Road have been added.

Other items facing the council tonight include an ordinance calling for the establishment of a Department of Economic Development in the city and a resolution on solid waste disposal.

The city will also accept a loan of $75,000 from the Board of Municipal Utilities that will help pay the city's share of the new recreation complex.

'BUTS' ABOUT
'LITTLE CIGARS'

Maybe those "little cigars" are not a whole 'nother smoke, after all. Maybe they are just cigarettes in a not- too- clever disguise.

The Federal Trade Commission has asked Congress to ban "little cigar" advertising from radio and television as it did with cigarette advertising. The commission said tests by its own laboratories and the Public Health Service indicated the "little cigars" were as dangerous to health as cigarettes.

Through the mindless, sexist television commercials for a particular brand of "little cigar," we have learned that the only difference between "little cigars" and the unmentionables is that the unmentionables are white, not brown.

The "little cigars," the commercials imply, help you get the beautiful girl (or be gotten by the ludicrously suave man if you are the beautiful girl). They improve your appearance, even if you are unspeakably good- looking to start out with. And they generally make your life infinitely better.

Just like cigarettes, right?

The formal government definition of a cigarette is a roll of tobacco wrapped in something other than tobacco. So the Little Cigar Council, Inc. — yes, Virginia, there is a Little Cigar Council — says it it "highly speculative" for anyone to think health hazards involved in smoking "little cigars" are similar to those involved in smoking cigarettes.

Sure, just as it is high speculative to think that the hazards involved in being run over by a blue car are similar to those involved in being run over by a red one.

A cigarette by any other name ...

That's not many, either, is it?

Since in recent months there have been a rash of breakins and burglaries in the city of Sikeston, we've heard that some neighborhoods have set up their own alert system in addition to police patrols.

Any strange vehicle or person is carefully watched and license plates are recorded along with other descriptions which could lead to an arrest. Some of the men, we are told, have acquired baseball bats to be used when necessary. Others have purchased more security devices and extra locks for their homes.

Sikeston police as well as the county sheriff's office need all the cooperation and assistance from the citizens they can get if the criminals are to be caught and prosecuted. We believe the courts should do more than slap a convicted person's wrist when he or she is sentenced.

RHYMES WITH ZILLION

To show how densisitized we have become to the words "millions" and "billions," especially in reference to dollars, a recent syndicated column reported the one - year earnings of a certain company at $88 billion.

Though this figure represents more than one-third the entire national budget and makes even General Motors look like a ma and pa basement business, it passed through several levels of copy editors and proofreaders and went unquestioned until it was spotted by the alert editor of a newspaper receiving the story.

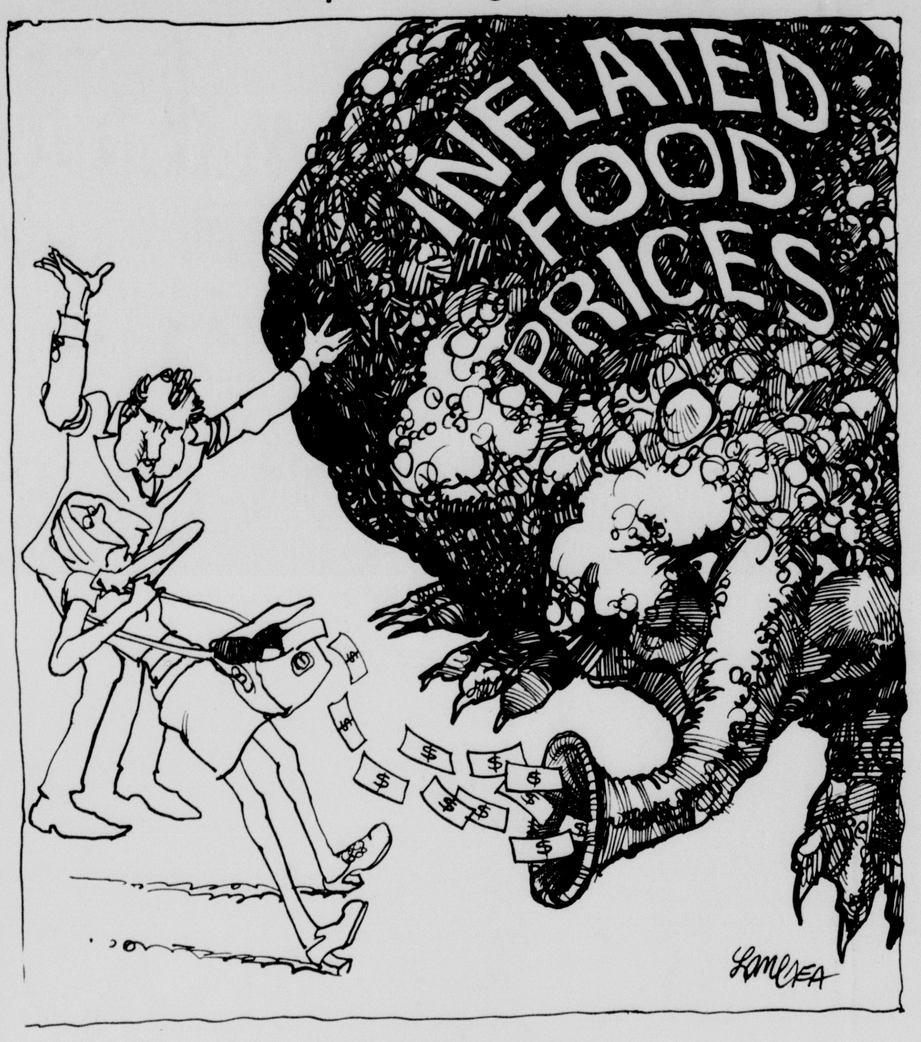

The source of the boo-boo was traced back to the writer himself, who had meant, of course, to type $88 million.

That's how desensitized we have become.

A new breed of college student — smarter scholastically, less radical politically and changed in other ways — is now moving onto American campuses, reports U.S. News & World Report.

Characteristics of the new student body appear from a comprehsensive study of the freshman class of 1972 just reported by the American Council on Education.

To get the profile, the council surveyed 307,656 young men and women who entered 527 colleges and universities.

One thing it discovered was that 62 per cent of the 1972 freshmen had average grades of "B" or better in high school. In the freshman class of 1968, by comparison, only 46 per cent of the students were in this category.

The survey also disclosed that political opinions are moderating. More than one third of the freshmen said they though colleges had been "too lax" in regard to campus protests.

In choosing courses, the council found students are turning away from science, engineering and education in favor of careers in medicine, public health and the law. One reason of this trend was the scarcity of jobs available in the scientific and teaching professions.

But if the trend away from science courses continues, the council warns, the country "may be approaching critically low levels for providing the educational base and scientific manpower needed to sustain the technology on which the economy is based."

The size of the freshman class of 1972 was estimated at 1,558,000, slightly less than the total first- time, full- time enrollments of 1971. Women made up 46.1 per cent of the class as compared with 45.6 per cent of the previous year. The percengage of black students also showed an increase from 6.3 in 1971 to 8.7 last autumn.

About 14 per cent of the new students come from families with incomes of less than $6,000 a year which indicates a continuing need for student financial aid. One third of the students indicated they would depend on part time or summer work as a major source of support while they are in college. About 22 per cent said they are relying on scholarships and grants as a major source of support.

Asked about public and social affairs, 90 per cent said they felt the Government was not controlling pollution and 76 per cent believed the Government was not doing enough to protect the consumer. Half of the students agreed "strongly or somewhat" that there were too many rights for criminals.

BE ON TIME

If someone, speaking of you, would say, "You can depend on him," or, "You can count on her," it is one of the highest compliments anyone can pay you.

There is a sure way you can command respect among your acquaintances, and that is to be known as being dependable. No matter what your ability might be, if you are reliable, this characteristic alone will take you a long way. Two things are important:

1. Always be on time. When you say you'll meet a friend some place at a certain time, be there. If school starts at nine o'clock, get there at nine; if dinner is at six, be ready to sit down at the table when the hour arrives.

2. Tell the truth and keep your promises. Never exaggerate. It is better, much better, to understate a fact than to overstate. Then your friends will soon say of you, "If he says so, it is so," and people will depend on what you say.

Friendships have been broken, partnerships have been dissolved, men and women have lost their jobs — all because they could not be depended upon.

See to it that you keep every promise you make. Make this a steady habit, and little by little you will become known as a dependable person. And to be dependable is the first step toward success in life.

THE HIGHEST ADVENTURE

An educational housecleaning is not only here; it is gaining momentum every day. It is true that too many recent high school graduates cannot read, nor spell, nor think, and these only partly educated teen-agers are having a hard time of it in college. Too many of them are "washing out" in the first year, and getting hurt badly psychologically for the rest of their lives.

Real teachers are men and women who have all of the three requirements for pounding knowledge and horsesense into young minds. First is for them to know what they are talking about. Second, they must have both moral courage and bull-headed persistence of purpose. Third, they must always have infinite patience and a genuine love for learning in their own minds and souls. No teacher has a right to own a teacher's certificate unless he also possesses the ability to give every mind that he touches a stimulating "smell of fire," mentally speaking.

The unpardonable sin for a free-minded man is to be "way ahead of his time" in attacking the school setup. If he wishes to be called everything except a scholar and a gentleman, just let him make a loud noise about anything that the "educated nut" stands for. The highest adventure in life is to be interested in the truth — and it also is the most fun!

YOU CAN HELP

In a world geared to accelerated communication, why do so many children fail at the most basic task -- reading? A tutor and remedial reading teacher, Jeraldine Stoute of Lubbock, Texas, analyzes the slow reader's background. "Let us look at the child of today. Soon after birth he is placed in a crib with an anticolic nurser while a mobile of colorful birds or objects hovers above to entertain him ... From here he is moved to a playpen furnished with 'educational toys' ... He cannot ask a question and receive an answer ... His next move is to an area about 36 inches from the TV set which also feeds him information of questionable value. Still, he cannot question or voice an idea, or receive a response ..."

It's a grim picture for the observer and a grimmer life ahead for the child. But there is a solution -- and you're part of it! Teacher Stoute continues, "I am convinced that if young parents would read to their children for just 20 minutes a day, there would be virtually no need for remedial reading classes."

Wood fiber, made from scraps and other waste which once were burned as an air pollutant or disposed of as solid waste, will now help improve the nation's balance - of- payments deficit.

Surplus chips from a number of companies are now being collected at a new $3- million Georgia- Pacific Corp. facility in Portland, Ore.

Japan is the major foreign chip buyer, it was indicated, and the first ship to use the new facility, the Zenkoren Maru, loaded 22,000 tons for that country.

Utilization of mill trimmings, low-grade logs and other once- wasted wood fiber will provide additional manufacturing, transportation and waterfront payrolls as well as help stimulate better long-range timber management, it was pointed out. Burning such waste now creates air pollution problems in many areas.

A POSITIVE PROGRAM

Many months ago, President Nixon's proposed program for the construction of 300 new merchant ships of the most advanced design was announced to the public. The program is to extend over a 10 - year period and has been widely hailed as a long overdue step toward restoring U. S. maritime supremacy. It is well to keep in mind the substance of the new program and the necessity of its adoption.

More than a generation ago, a fleet of 2,500 U. S. war - built merchant vessels served as a "bridge of ships" that turned the tide of World War II. Since then, the state of the U. S. Merchant Marine has been declining, even as our stake in world trade became greater with each passing year. Leaders in the maritime industry, for more than two decades, stressed the folly of letting the U. S. merchant fleet pass into obsolescence and oblivion. Last year, while U. S. overseas trade hit a new peak of $73 billion, cargo carriage in U. S. ships dwindled from 57.6 per cent of the total after the war to 6.4 per cent. Foreign - flag transport of our commerce has increased from 42.4 per cent ot 93.6 per cent in post-war years.

It has been the threat of this growing imbalance to the security of the nation that has helped to stimulate renewed interest in a strengthening of the U. S. Merchant Marine. The result is the positive program now before Congress -- a program that should speed the teachnology of intermodalism and the concept of total transportation that has been in the process of development among leaders of the maritime industry for some years. Thanks to the vision of these leaders, we stand at the dawn of a new age in ocean transport that will give new meaning to U. S. sea power and will assure our country's place in international commerce.

POW RETURN

The prison camps of North Vietnam are supposed to be empty now. Soon all the U.S. fighting men once held in them will have been flown to the Phillippines and then on home. Citizens of Republic USA are enthralled with the television coverage of each stage of the return, as well they should be. U.S. pride swells at the sight of the proud and patriotic fighting men being reunited with their families.

One prisoner of war said in an interview upon his return home that he now had some misgivings about the war in Indochina. Not that he opposed fighting communism, he had done his duty as a military man, he said, but he wondered aloud why we were fighting communists in Southeast Asia but nothing to halt communism at home. This young man makes sense. For a half century and more, trained professional communists and their sympathizers have infiltrated various branches of our government, our churches and our civic and social agencies. Many citizens and people in high authority have ignored this infiltration. It is time that something be done about the internal threat of communism. It is even more dangerous to us here than abroad.

Perhaps our former prisoners of war will pick up the torch of Liberty and our No. 1 enemy. They did not hesitate to fight the Red foe abroad, even though their leadership at the top did not allow them to win on the field of combat. Here at home they can insist that the handcuffs be taken off and we can join them in this vital struggle to preserve the freedoms of Republic USA.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

WASHINGTON-- There is a shadowy sub- world where truth makes pallid even the most lurid fiction. Among these shadows, wraithlike men and women intrigue against each other in a fashion which would put Ian Fleming's literary sorties into the lawn croquet class. In a sense this is the final conflict between the Communist and non- Communist world. And it is fought, often enough, by labor men, working with corporate executives and national intelligence services across the globe.

We win some. We lose some. And there are some we could have won--- but lost. I can well recall Fidel Castro chuckling while relating his mountain rendezvous with the gentleman from the New York Times in the late '50s before he took power.

Castro chortled as he told some of us that the newspaper gentleman thought the 18 (or 16) men in the secret aerie were his bodyguards. Indeed, laughed Castro, "it was my whole army." A little money, a little "intelligence," some subsidy of the pre- Castro labor movement, might have saved thousands of men and women later executed by the bearded one.

There have always been undercover operations. We won many of them in post- war Germany, Italy, France. Labor and businessmen I've known have carried tens of thousands of dollars in cash to neutralize the equipment, presses, propagandist labor organizers, "centrals" and even killers planted by the Soviets, and later the Maoists, across the free world.

Why, then, is everyone so startled over the International Telephone and Telegraph Corp.'s offer to put a million dollars into Chile, via the CIA, to defeat Salvador Allende Gossens? America put a billion dollars into Chile to help its people. When I was there some years ago, I first addressed and later conferred with some 35 newspaper editors in Santiago.

They were knowledgeable, sincere men. They loved their impoverished nation. They wondered why the U.S. was so amateurish in battling Communist infiltration, Soviet subsidization of unions and the press. When I talked with anti-Communist labor leaders there, we near froze because their small headquarters had no heat in deepest winter. And all they asked for were a few autos so they could travel quickly north and south in their narrow land to compete with the Communist organizers who had a fleet of cars.

And I was told of the deep Soviet strength. Especially of one Communist who had been in the "International" with Lenin.

And there is Guyana, near British Guiana. The Soviets and Maoists poured money and undercover men into this small country on the northern coast of South America. And for a while the Stalinists and Maoists took it in the form of Dr. Cheddi Jagan. He took power, he purged. The CIA and some American labor men and industrialists went to the help of free men there. We won. Today it is a democratic nation led by Forbes Burnham, an anti- Communist ex- labor leader.

I can recall one of his colleagues dining with me in Georgetown, Guyana, gun on table. Said he, "I've taught my 15- year- old daughter to use one. We'll die fighting." Melodramatic? No, truth. Today free democratic Guyana is still under attack by Marxist forces allied to such strange elements as the Black Liberation Army headquartered in New York.

Of course, labor and business leaders work with their national intelligence services across the free world. Wouldn't be free otherwise. Pick at random, Ethiopia.

When I first got to Addis Ababa, the tiny labor "movement" had a pasteboard sign and two typewriters--- one from the Communists. Ask Ed Korry. He was ambassador then to the court of Emperer Haile Selassie. That was before Ed was posted in Chile. Ask him about Chile and Communist operations.

So we outmaneuvered the Communists and today the Ethiopian labor movement is not a vassal of the Soviets, as are powerful French, German, British and Italian federations.

Of course, the British Trades Union Congress (AFL—CIO) counterpart) works with its national intelligence service MI- 5 and MI- 6. Of course the German unions work with theirs. And what of the Germans' labor- based Friedrich Ebert Foundation? It has poured money and manpower into Africa and Latin America, working with Bonn's secret service, seeking influence for its nation in the labor movements and parties aboard.

I know little of what ITT wanted to do with its million. Or what CIA clandestine chief Bill Broe and corporate executives planned. But I do know that if American businessmen, financiers, labor chiefs and even a few intellectuals I used to call by first name had not moved against the enemies of freedom in underdeveloped and war-scarred lands we would have had a mighty tight little island of freedom.

So I suggest that the leaders of the Senate Foreign Relations Subcommittee on Multinational Corporations do what they believe should be done-- but certainly this must include learning what the enemy was doing.

And Salvador Allende is our enemy. His comrades long have tried to topple our own government. He knows it. He knows what his own secret intelligence operation has done. Why should we be ashamed of ours? Let the whole story be told.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
Watergate Caper Planned In John Mitchell's Office

WASHINGTON — Watergate defendant James McCord asserts the bugging of the Democratic National Committee was planned secretly in Attorney General John Mitchell's Justice Department office by Mitchell, White House counsel John Dean and Nixon campaign aides Gordon Liddy and Jeb Magruder.

McCord has given a written memo to this effect to the Senate committee probing the Watergate scandal. Quoting Liddy himself, the stolid McCord, who served as campaign security chief, sets the date of the meeting in February 1972 — while Mitchell was still attorney general.

In his memo for the Senate dated March 26, McCord says Liddy gave him considerable details about the chandestine Justice Department meeting. As McCord reports in his two-page initialed document:

"John Dean, Jeb Magruder, Gordon Liddy and John Mitchell in Feb. 1972 met in Mitchell's office at the Department of Justice and held the first formal discussion of bugging and related operations.

Carefully Planned

"Liddy had planned for the meeting very carefully and had drafted out in longhand budget figures for various items of expense, and had discussed them and certain details of the over-all operation with Jeb Magruder (who) reportedly set up the meeting with Mitchell."

McCord's carefully- worded memo says he believed Liddy was planning to send or handcarry the plans "to someone in the White House. I do not know to whom he took it."

As Liddy recounted it to McCord, the crucial Justice Department meeting was "set up for one particular day, but was cancelled, and reset for a day or so later."

McCord's statement says Liddy spent about $7,000 to have four-by-four feet charts drawn up for the meeting.

"The charts were brought in late one afternoon and left in (Liddy's) office on the 4th floor wrapped in brown paper. My impression was that they were commercially done...."

Hour-Long Meeting

The alleged conspirators gathered in Mitchell's office in the afternoon, as McCord recalled it and "from what Liddy told me it lasted an hour or more."

Liddy, according to McCord, said that the discussions at the Justice Department "covered the pros and cons of various bugging type operations. No decisions were made at the meeting.... but the impression Liddy had seem(ed) to be that the iperation would be approved."

Within a few days, "Dean told Liddy that a way would have to be worked out to undertake the operation without directly involving the Attorney General so that he would have deniability about it at a future date.

"Dean told Liddy at this time that the funding for the operation would subsequently come to him through other than regular Committee for the Re-Election (of the President) funding mechanisms so that there would be no record of it....."

Liddy said Dean told him "to destroy the ($7,000) charts but Liddy said that he had paid so much for them that he did not plan to do so....I never saw the charts.....

'Had Been Approved'

"About 30 days after the February meeting in the A/G's (Attorney General's) office, Liddy told me that the operation 'had been approved' .....My impression was that this word of the approval came from Dean, although this was not specifically stated by Liddy."

A few months later in June, McCord and four Cubans were trapped inside Democratic headquarters by city police. All five, plus Liddy and ex-White House aide Howard Hunt have been convicted in the case. McCord is now telling his story to the Senate.

Footnote: Mitchell, Magruder and Dean have all denied any advance knowledge of the bugging.

WASHINGTON WHIRL

Idle Choppers — We recently reported that hundreds of surplus military helicopters were sitting idly by in storage while police agencies around the country were paying through the nose for new police helicopters. We told how a bureaucratic logjam in Washington was prohibiting police agencies from obtaining essential information from the Pentagon so the aircraft could be properly certified and insured. After our story appeared, the Pentagon acted quickly to correct this oversight. The Pentagon has assured Rep. Ogden Reid, D-N.Y., that it will provide all available records on the surplus aircraft. Now, it's up to the Federal Aviation Administration, which has stalled the police agencies in the past, to make sure no new logjams develop.

Stag Party— Texas oil millionaire Cling Murchison's man in Washington, Tom Webb, threw a stag party the other night in honor of Attorney General Richard Kleindienst. Murchison flow in from Texas for the wingding, which lasted most of the night. Kleindienst left around 3:00 a.m., but some guests hung around playing gin rummy until 7:00 a.m.

Harlequin players do well in play

By MARY NOLEN

Three rich, spoiled stepchildren placed their stepmother in a sanitorium whi they tried to figure out a way to take her fortune in Saturday night's performance of "The Curious Savage" by the Sikeston High Shcool Harlequin players at the junior high school auditorium.

The play, written by John Patrick, is a comedy about a rich widow whose husband died and left her a lot of money which she wanted to use to open a memorial fund in his honor.

A promising young actress, Miss Jo Ellen Felker, played the part of the stepmother, Mrs. Ethel Savage, who, after being married for many years, only wants to do some of the things she has missed out on.

The stepchildren included Titus, the senator, played by David Ahlvin; Samuel, the judge, played by Mark Ahlvin; and Lilly Belle, played by Melba Gilliland. Each added to the entertainment by trying to figure out where their stepmother had hidden the fortune. Their only desire was to find the money and be rid of their stepmother.

Special commendation should go to Debi Cloud who played a convincing role as Fairy May, who stretched the truth to the point that no one believed her about anything.

Mrs. Paddy, played by Debbie White, was a pessimist who hated electricity. Her only lines during the play were spoken when she recited the things she hated.

Hannibal, played by Mike Marsh, tried to convince other patients of the sanitarium he was a perfectionist at playing the violin.

Other members of the cast were Florence, portrayed by Cathy Brown; Jeffrey, played by Wayne Noe; Miss Wilhelmina, Theresa Weathers; Dr. Emmett, Roy Sanderson; and John Thomas, Bobby Sanderson.

Cast, crew members and everyone who helped with the production of "The Curious Savage" are to be commended for a job well done.

Everyone feels some inferiority

By SHAREN HUNT
Area Home Economist

"He's better at everything. I might as well admit it." This is a familiar reaction of inferiority and resentment. It's common knowledge that all of us are inferior to others in some ways. Some are more athletic, graceful, better managers, or conversationalists, etc.

We should feel inferior in certain activities where others excel, but if we feel less important all the time, it might be because we don't feel superior in anything. Each of us needs to feel competent in something, and we also need to be recognized by others. But the truly wise person knows that in every area in which one is competent, there are others who can do just as well.

This conflict about comparing and competition can be handled by enjoying one's own abilities and also appreciating others. Always comparing oneself with the best of others can be exhausting, misleading and depressing. This often comes from overemphasizing our shortcomings, not recognizing our strengths and the tending to compare the best in others with the worst in ourselves.

For example: You approach a group and they laugh. You swear they're laughing at you. Or they stop talking and you're certain they were talking about you. You make yourself miserable and brood. You may condemn yourself or them.

Those who always feel inferior react to this imagined "hurt" in a child - like manner or don one of their disguises — domination - if you dominate others, they can't hurt you; self-pity, if you are afraid to express anger at others, this shifts blame for your condition to "them"; martyr, some feel the only way to get approval and exert power is to make others feel obligated because of their sacrificates, "After all I've done for you"; stubborness, giving in is seen as a threat.

Most of us feel some of these ways occasionally, but let's realize we all have feelings of inferiority and also that each one of us has special competencies.

"Frustration comes from not being yourself."

Youths observe FHA Week

Approximately 17,500 young Missourians will participate in the national observance of FHA Week which began Sunday and will continue through Saturday.

The Missouri members of the Future Homemakers of America will join half- a-million other members throughout the nation in the observance, focusing on the theme, "Explore Roles-- Extend Goals."

Missouri's approximately 340 FHA chapters will be exploring the many roles individuals play in the family, community and career life. The results of their efforts are active involvement in home, teamwork experience, vocational orientation, active civic and school projects, and growth in individual leadership.

The junior high and senior high youths will carry out special activities designed to share their experiences and accomplishments with family, friends and neighbors, according to Mrs. Chris Southers of the State Department of Education and state advisor to the Missouri Association of FHA.

"The week provides FHA members with an opportunity to spotlight the organization and its worthwhile goals and activities," says Mrs. Southers. "I think the theme-- Explore Roles-Extend Goals-- is worthwhile for all of today's youth who are striving to recognize their unique potential."

Kay Cline describes death row, gas chamber

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another in the series of a wife's point of view of Jefferson City by Kay Cline, wife of State Rep. C. F. Cline of Sikeston, 159th District Democrat.

By KAY CLINE

During our tour through the Missouri State Penitentiary, we were conducted to the Maximum Security Building. Death Row is a cellblock within this building. It is located underground. To enter Death Row we went through three locked gates. Each gate was manned by an armed guard. The inmates are isolated one to a cell. There is a double row of bars, with the outside row of bars having chain link fencing woven between the bars.

Inmates sentenced to death are bathed, fingerprinted, photographed, given clothing and a physical examination. They are than taken to Death Row and put in an isolated cell.

Approximately in the center of MSP is the building that houses the gas chamber. While walking to the chamber, the prisoner, chaplain, warden and guards walk over a white cross painted on a cobblestone walk. Red roses from an arch over the walkway. The building is built of shaggy, cleft-rimmed rock. It is next to the industries (factories) complex.

The inmates pass the chamber every day going to and from work in the factories. The building is divided in half. One door is for witnesses who observe the execution. The other door is where the inmates enters.

The walls of the gas chamber are cracked and a few windows are broken. A phone on the wall comes directly from the governor's office. The inmate naturally hopes and prays that the Governor will call for a stay of execution.

On one half of the building are two cells. Each cell has one commode and one lavatory. The chamber is round and made of steel and glass. Inside the chamber are two steel chairs with straps to hold the condemned securely in position. The inmate is placed in the chair and strapped in.

When a prisoner is to be executed the chaplain meets the inmate at Death Row and continues with him to the gas chamber. He stays with him until he is strapped into his seat in the chamber.

A pharmacist from the prison hospital mixes the proper portion of the mixture. A guard places the mixture in position. The cyanide pellets are placed in a trap beneath the chair under the seat. The acid is placed on the floor under the back of the chair. The guard immediately leaves the chamber. When the guard is out, the door is securely bolted.

The warden pulls the lever for the cyanide pellets to drop into the acid and this forms the gas mixture. With the first breath, the inmate dies. The warden, doctor and witnesses watch the death. The doctor pronounces the inmate's death and fresh air vents are released to remove the gas.

Approximately an hour after the death, the body is carried out of the chamber. If the family wishes to have the body, they can have it for proper burial. If not, the MSP buries the inmate.

This may not be every entertaining reading, but this is what happens. The legislature has several bills pending on the death penalty. I hope this does not sway anyone's belief one way or another. I feel that the people of our state have a right to know how the gas chamber works.

Ann Landers

Ann reprints phoney letter

Dear Ann Landers: When you spoke to our group at Yale in February you referred to a very fishy letter that came from New Haven about ten years ago. You said it was that letter that first alerted you to the Yalees' unusual talent for composing phonies.

I was only nine years old when that letter appeared and although I was probably reading your column I had never heard of Yale. Would it be possible for you to hunt up that letter and print it? And incidentally, Annie, you aren't the square old bag many of us expected. You're a mighty cool chick who could lie about her age by 20 years and get away with it. Of course, I was seated toward the back. Please come again soon.--- Bow Wow Wow-'75

Dear Wow: Who cares where you were sitting? That was a nice compliment Thank you.

The letter you asked about appeared on February 27, 1964. Here it is:

Dear Ann Landers: My boyfriend and I have been going together for 41 years. I had my first date with Atherton after I graduated from Vassar in the class of 1923. He was in the Yale class of 1921.

My parents have never allowed us to go anywhere unchaperoned because they were afraid we might get into trouble. Father passed away in 1954 and it's awfully hard on mother to go everywhere with us, especially skiing. She fell last winter on a slope at Sun Valley and her hip never did mend just right.

Don't you feel that now, since I am 63 years old, and past the child- bearing age, that Atherton and I should be allowed to date without a chaperone? Please rush your advice, Ann. We are desperate.--- Impatient Lovers In New Haven.

Dear Lovers: Now that you are past the child- bearing age why don't you do your homework and stop bothering me with phony letters?

If you kids at Yale knew how much alike your group-constructed masterpieces were, you'd be thoroughly embarrassed. Get lost.

Dear Ann Landers: How can a 31- year- old wife and mother of three young children keep a spotless home, put gourmet meals on the table, chauffeur her mother- in- law and aunt around town, work in the church thrift shop, iron shirts like the Chinese laundry, and give three kids loads of love and the time and attention they deserve? And, oh yes, my husband has a lusty appetite for sex and I have to take care of THAT, too. Any bright ideas, Ann Landers?--- Just Plain Tired

Dear P.T.: That's quite a litany of activities, dearie. The only ones that require your personal attention--- substitutes won't do--- are the last two. So concentrate on THEM and go easy on the others.

Dear Ann Landers: Our daughter graduates from high school next year and has her heart set on nursing. My husband and I are proud of her but we are upset by an article that appeared recently in the Wall Street Journal. It said a career in nursing has many occupational hazards. Listed were back injuries from lifting heavy patients, diseases from infectious patients, hepatitis from cleaning test- tubes giving injections, and injuries from falling on the heavily waxed floors. True or false, Ann?--- Concerned In Baltimore

Dear Concerned: True. But the satisfactions of nursing certainly compensate for the occupational hazards. I know of no group that gives more-- and receives more--- in terms of personal fulfillment.

Students perform

Second, third and fourth grade students of Southeast Elementary School performed skills in folk dancing, manipulating scooter boards through obstacle courses and gymnastics for members of the Southeast Elementary Parent- Teacher Association at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the school auditorium.

The students were under the direction of Maxine Fakes and Felicia Fox of the music and physical education departments.

Attendance banners were presented to Maxine Choate and Betty Sheehy, third grade teachers.

TELEVISE THROUGH GLASS WALL

LONDON (AP) — A special all-glass wall developed in Britain makes it possible to view and televise squash games from behind the back wall.

The wall is made of plates of 1/2-inch toughened glass, which is as much as five times stronger than ordinary window glass of the same thickness.

The problem of reflections and sighting the ball against a transparent surface were solved by etching vertical, parallel lines into the inner, or court, surface of the lowest 2 1/2 feet of the glass. Most times, the ball hits the back wall below this level, the manufacturer found.

Busy schedule at SHS

Weather permitting, the four Sikeston High School spring sports will get into full swing this week with a slate of eight events scheduled.

BASEBALL

After three rain- outs, Coach N.P. McDaniel's baseballers will try to get the season under way as they host the Poplar Bluff Mules in a four o'clock ballgame Tuesday afternoon at V.F.W. stadium. The Mules are in their first year of baseball this year, and will probably face Sikeston's fireballing sophomore Kenny Stokes.

The remainder of the probably starting lineup will be John Leible behind the plate, Jim Saulter at first base, Bill Schatzley at second base, Rick Eisenbach at shortstop, Danny Nelson at third base, Donnie Taylor in left field, Greg Colwock in center field, and Rick Dyer in right field.

TENNIS

Coach John Heacox and company will be on the road for matches this afternoon and Wednesday against Cape Central and Kennett respectively.

The netment, despite squeaking past a tough Poplar Bluff tennis squad last Wednesday afternoon six matches to five, were not as impressive as they would have hoped. These two teams they will face this week are fine teams, and could stop the Bulldogs.

TRACK

Cinder action moves outside this week as the outdoor season begins. The varsity thinclads will go to Cape Tuesday to participate in a tri- meet with Cape Central and Kennett and to East Prairie Saturday to participate in the East Prairie invitational meet. Coach Jim Graham's tracksters defeated Cape and Kennett in the Sikeston indoor tri- meet two weeks ago, but with the outdoor season comes a list of new events.

Fourteen events will be on the outdoor porgram. They are; the shot put, the discus, the pole vault, the long jump, 100- yard dash, the 120- yard high and low hurdles, the mile run, the 440- yard run, the 880- yard run, the mile relay, the two-mile relay, the 880- yard relay, and the triple jump.

The freshmen cinderman will also be in action Tuesday as they go to Kennett to participate in a freshman outdoor meet.

GOLF

The 1973 golf season began today as the SHS squad hosted the duffers from Dexter. They are also slated to visit the Kennett country club Friday afternoon to take on the KHS golfers in a 3:45 encounter.

Coach Robert Buchanan's squad of three seniors, two juniors, one sophomore, and two freshmen are scheduled to play nine matches over the next 18 school days, which will leave little time for practice.

Brown among top 10

NEW YORK (NEA) — Bill Walton of UCLA and Ed Ratleff of Long Beach State were the top vote-getters on the 1973 NEA-NBA All-American College basketball team.

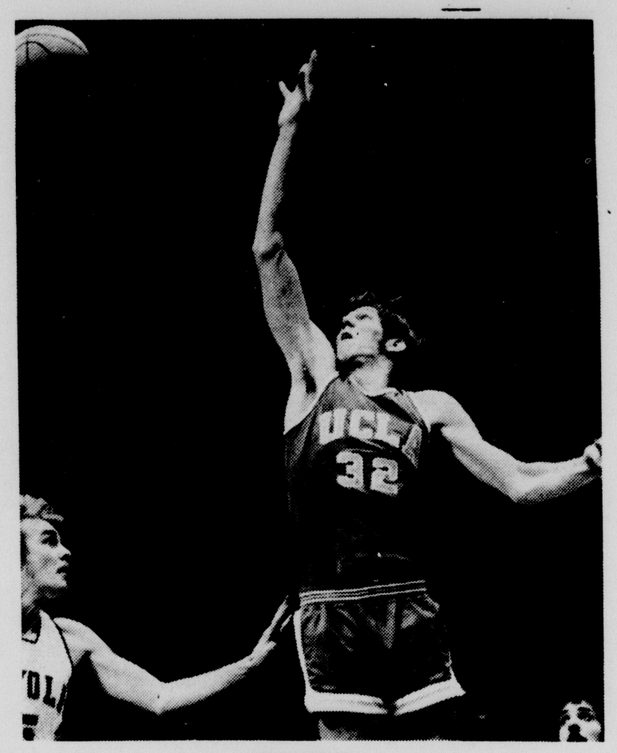

Walton and Ratleff received 16 first-team votes. The 17 National Basketball Association coaches who selected the team in conjunction with Newspaper Enterprise Association also named Doug Collins of Illinois State, David Thompson of North Carolina State and Jim Brewer of Minnesota to the starting five.

The coaches picked the players who were the best in the country, regardless of position, class or future professional potential.

The second team, in order voting, was: Ernie DiGregorio of Providence; Ron Behagen, Minnesota; Mike Green of Louisiana Tech, John Brown of Missouri and Dwight Lamar of Southwestern Louisiana.

There were only two honorable mentions. They were Keith Wilkes of UCLA and Tom Henderson of Hawaii.

Walton, the 6-11 junior center, and Ratleff, the 6-6 senior guard, are the only first-team repeaters. Lamar, the 6-1 senior guard, was a member of last year's first team.

SPORTS

Royals Retain String

Kansas City's fourth-place finish in the American League's Western Division in 1972 kept alive thyRoyals' string of never having finished below that position.

Rojas Needs Four

Cookie Rojas needs to play in only fourr more games at second base to chalk up 1000 for his major league career. The veteran has been with the Kansas City Royals for the last two and one half years.

Royals Held Edge Over A's

Cincinnati Reds could have taken a lesson from the Kansas City Royals in 1972. Kansas City outscored Oakland, 66 to 65, in their 18-game series in the American League regular season.

Mayberry at Home on Road

John Mayberry, who set a Kansas City Royals record with 100 RBI in 1972, did slightly better on the road than in Kansas City. He had 51 RBI away from the spacious Municipal Stadium in Kansas City.

Ali takes beating

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The $10 -million dream, which ended with an explosion for Joe Frazier, faded quietly for Muhammad Ali.

His voice quieted by a broken jaw and his manner subdued after 12 rounds with a younger, stronger foe, Ali stood in his corner Saturday and heard what he probably had guessed: he had lost, amazingly to Ken Norton by a split decision.

A few months ago, before Frazier walked into several of George Foreman haymakers in Jamaica, a Frazier-Ali rematch loomed that would outdraw their "Fight of the Century" and give Ali the chance to erase the only blot on his record and retire as champion.

Instead, the previously anonymous Norton, 28, now is the logical challenger to Foreman, while the future of the 31-year-old Ali is in doubt.

The broken jaw "shouldn't hamper his career," Dr. William Lundeen, the supervising ring physician, said after a 1½hour operation Saturday night. But Norton's trainer, Eddie Futch, when asked about a rematch with Ali, said: "Sure, if the money's right. But right now we don't need him."

Ali's trainer, Angelo Dundee, said Sunday that the boxer would be hospitalized "for two or three days" for the operation to wire his left jaw bone which was broken three-quarters of an inch apart.

Dundee said, "From all indications, he's going to be fine." He said "We've already talked and he asked how long it might be before he can get back in training."

Ali, who had won 10 straight since losing to Frazier, was a 51 favorite over Norton, whose 30 victims in 31 fights were even more obscure. But Norton helped even the odds by starting a rigorous training program Feb. 22 while Ali trained lightly until the final week.

Ali, who lost for the second time in 43 fights, earned $210,000 to Norton's $50,000.

Ali's jaw was broken early in the fight. Dundee, said it happened in the first round, though Norton didn't appear to land a solid blow in the round. Futch thinks it was in the fourth round.

"I can't fathom how he could fight," Lundeen said. The lower left jaw bone was broken clear through, he added.

But Ali, spitting blood, wouldn't let Dundee stop the fight. He showed slashes of his old style—one round of dancing and two of prodding, a jab that was quick but no longer stung. With one round left he still had a chance to win.

But in the 12th round, Norton trapped Ali in a corner for the sixth time in the fight and battered him with body and head punches, leaving no doubt in the minds of 11,884 fans, or of their hometown favorite. "I beat you, sucker," Norton said before the cards were read: 5-4 Norton, 6-5 Ali, 7-5 Norton.

Pitchers taking beatings

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Some of baseball's better pitchers tuned up Sunday for the approaching opening of the season but most were off-key.

Item: The San Francisco Giants rapped Oakland's Vida Blue for seven runs on 10 hits— including two triples and four doubles—in five innings en route to a 10-9 exhibition victory over the A's.

Item: The Milwaukee Brewers pounded Chicago ace Ferguson Jenkins for five runs in six innings and continued their 16-hit assault on Larry Gura for an 8-4 triumph over the Cubs.

Item: The Texas Rangers teed off on Kansas City's Dick Drago for seven runs and nine hits in four innings and held off the Royals 8-6.

Item: New York's Tom Seaver was supposed to go seven innings but was tagged for three runs and left after four innings because of a chewed-up mound in the Mets' 13-inning 43 victory over the New York Yankees.

Item: Pittsburgh's Nelson Briles shut out Cincinnati for four innings but Larry Stahl pinch hit a fifth-inning homer and, after a walk to Joe Morgan, Johnny Bench also connected as the Reds beat the Pirates 4-1.

Some others pitched well, but were simply outdueled.

Item: Ernie McAnally hurled eight innings of four-hit ball as the Montreal Expos blanked the Philadelphia Phillies and Cy Young Award winner Steve Carlton 3-0.

Item: Bob Gibson of St. Louis faltered in the second inning against three light hitters—Eddie Leon walked, rival pitcher Stan Bahnsen doubled and Buddy Bradford singled them both home—as the Chicago White Sox downed the Cardinals 2-0.

However, California's Nolan Ryan, Minnesota's Bill Hands and Cleveland's Steve Dunning came through for the pitchers' union.

Item: Ryan, who won 19 games last year and led the majors in strikeouts, allowed only two singles as the Angels nipped the Los Angeles Dodgers 2-1.

Item: Hands, acquired from the Cubs in a winter deal, gave up one run in seven innings as the Twins edged the Houston Astros 3-2.

Item: Dunning scattered four singles in six innings as the Indians blanked the San Diego Padres 2-0.

Elsewhere, the Boston Red Sox shaded the Detroit Tigers 6-5 while the Baltimore Orioles and Atlanta Braves traded seven home runs and 27 hits before they were halted after 14 innings by a curfew tied at 9-all.

Right-to-work, tax relief on agenda this week

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Missouri legislators will debate property tax relief, a right-to-work law and will get a message from the governor on welfare this week.

Both houses will reconvene this afternoon at 4 p.m.

Gov. Christopher S. Bond plans to deliver a message to the legislature Wednesday or Thursday, plus hold a news conference to discuss proposed federal cutbacks in welfare.

A governor's spokesman said the governor probably would not address the legislature in person.

The cutbacks are expected to be in the areas of old age assistance, with 95,000 Missourians receiving such payments; aid to the blind, 4,500; and aid to the disabled, 22,000.

On Tuesday, the Senate is expected to clear the decks for debate on "circuit breaker" property tax relief bill just as senators did when they debated government reorganization for six days.

The House has passed a bill giving tax aid to persons over 65—through a reduction in property taxes and state income taxes—who earn less than $10,080.

Both the Senate and House bills have similar formulas for figuring reductions, but the Senate bill would not apply to 65-year-olds earning more than $7,500 a year.

A resolution calling for a Constitutional Amendment saying persons could not be forced to join unions to keep their jobs will be heard Tuesday night in the House Constitutional Amendments Committee.

Rep. Vic Downing, D-Bragg City, introduced the proposed Constitutional Amendment as well as a bill on right-to-work. A hearing on the bill two weeks ago attracted over 1,000 union members opposed to the bill.

Downing's resolution would put the issue to a vote of the people.

While the Senate debates property tax relief, House floor action is expected to center on gasoline taxes for mass transit and increases in aid to dependent children welfare payments.

Wednesday night, the House Insurance Committee will consider a Senate-passed bill to have the state regulat the Blue Cross-Blue Shield health insurance plans.

Reorganization of state government will be discussed again Wednesday night in a joint House-Senate committee meeting.

Richardson supports bombing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense Secretary Elliot L. Richardson says the present Cambodian government would have trouble surviving without U.S. bombing support unless the Communists agree to a ceasefire.

The fall of Cambodia could threaten the security of the Thieu government in South Vietnam, Richardson said Sunday.

The secretary said U.S. bombing raids over Cambodia are justified because the U.S. aim "is to support a government with which we have been fighting, in a continuing effort to bring the fighting to an end."

As to the ability of the Lon Nol government in Cambodia to survive without American air support, Richardson said:

"I think it would be very difficult in present circumstances. They are facing a massive threat by well-armed, well-organized gurrilla forces, which include forces from North Vietnam itself. This is a situation which could be brought to an end if Hanoi observed in full the cease-fire agreements as they apply to the whole of Indochina.

"They could help bring this about simply by shutting off supplies and withdrawing their own forces from South Vietnam." The collapse of Lon Nol's government, Richardson said, could open up to the Communists routes for resupplying forces in South Vietnam and allow "the untrammeled use of Cambodia as a staging area for attacks against South Vietnam."

The continued bombing of Cambodia is aimed at bringing "about the earliest possible compliance with the ceasefire," Richardson said on NBC's "Meet the Press."

Survivor says more than 100 airmen were killed by angry militiamen

WASHINGTON (AP) — A survivor of North Vietnamese captivity says he believes more than 100 U.S. airmen were killed by angry militiamen and civilians after their planes were shot down.

"Well over 100 men were seen on the ground alive but never reached the prison system," Air Force Col. James H. Kasler said in an interview.

"We know that in the bombed areas an awful lot of men were killed by the militia. The North Vietnamese civilians were pretty irate."

Kasler, 46, of Indianapolis, Ind., credited regular North Vietnamese troops with rescuing some U.S. troops from lynching.

His estimate of the number of American fliers slain in this way was the first made publicly by any returned POW. He said his information came from downed air crewmen he met during the 6½ years he was held in the North.

In addition, Kasler said that 12 to 15 POWs who were taken into interrogation "never reappeared."

"I don't think they had any intention of killing us,' Kasler said of the North Vietnamese interrogators. "But they were so crude in their torture. And they were like mad dogs, they lost their heads."

Kasler said he believes three seriously ill men died of willful neglect.

He identified them as Air Force Maj. Earl G. Cobiel, Navy Cmdr. Kenneth R. Cameron, and Navy Lt. Cmdr. James J. Connell. Their names have appeared on a list of 55 American military men reported by the Hanoi government as having died in captivity.

Kasler told of what he called a "big escape purge" staged by the North Vietnamese in May 1969 after two U.S. fliers broke out of a compound and were recaptured.

"Between 40 and 45 officers got the treatment (torture beatings)," Kasler said. "The North Vietnamese tried to find out whether there was an escape committee. There was an escape committee, but so few people knew anything about it that the Vietnamese never were able to learn who was on it."

Treatment of U.S. war prisoners had improved after the United States stopped bombing North Vietnam in late 1968, Kasler said, but the escape attempt "gave them an excuse" to resume the abuses. The purge lasted about a month.

Kasler said a survey made by camp leaders among 351 POWs in 1971 showed that 95 per cent of them had been tortured and 40 per cent had been forced to live in solitary confinement for at least six months.

Farmers got more than producers during month

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prices farmers received for their goods in the month ended March 15 actually rose faster than producers' expenses, according to the Agriculture Department.

That left the March 15 parity ratio, a yardstick used to measure the cost-price relationship, at 86 per cent, one of the highest one-month marks in the past 20 years. The parity ratio, for example has not averaged 100 per cent for an entire year since 1952.

Although many, if not most, farm economists have discredited the old parity yardstick as a meaningful indicator of farm well-being. there are those who say it does tell a lot about the shape of agriculture.

The parity ratio, with the old 1910-14 cost and price relationship used as a basic standard, probably is most useful in comparing the situation from one year to the next, or in other short-range comparisons.

It also can be useful in taking a look at specific commodities on the same short-term basis.

In the March report, issued by USDA last Friday, the average price for all products listed rose 7 per cent, the most for a single month since October 1946. The 1973 index was 33 per cent more than on March 15 last year.

But of all the commodities listed according to parity ratio—many, including tobacco, peanuts and hay are not rated—only six were prices at 100 per cent or more.

Five of those were livestock animals and the sixth was soybeans. Here is how those stacked up on the parity scale:

—Beef cattle averaged $43.60 per 100 pounds on the hoof and were 107 per cent of parity. That compared with $40.50 in February, 100 per cent; and $32.40 a year earlier for 90 per cent.

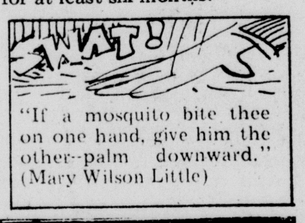

—Calves averaged $58.20 per hundredweight and were 117 per cent of parity. That compared with $52.40 in February, 108 per cent; and $41.70 a year earlier for 97 per cent.

—Hogs averaged $38.30 per hundredweight and were 113 per cent; they were $34.20 in February, 102 per cent; and $23.30 a year earlier for 78 per cent.

—Sheep averaged $11.88 per hundredweight and were 103 per cent of parity; they were $10.40 in February, 92 per cent; and $6.78 a year earlier for 65 per cent.

—Soybeans at $6.05 per bushel were 132 per cent of parity; they were $5.49 in February, 122 per cent; and $3.20 a year earlier for 79 per cent.

Lambs came close, averaging a record high of $39.50 per hundredweight for 94 per cent of parity.

Highlights and Sidelights

Assembly in low gear

JEFFERSON CITY — The current session of the Missouri General Assembly is a little past the half- way point, and only one bill has passed both houses.

That bill, which would require all state agencies, boards and institutions to justify each expense of more than $50 in appropriations requests, is not expected to receive the Governor's signature.

Of the more than 300 bills introduced in the Senate, and 800- plus in the House, only a small number have been passed by either body. This is somewhat surprising since the legislative committees got a fast start on hearings this year. However, the pace has slowed in recent weeks, even as the legislative calendars have lengthened.

One measure of the slow pace has been the emergency appropriations bill requested by Gov. Christopher S. Bond. The House and Senate have bickered over some of the provisions of the bill, and as a result there has been no final action on the $16 million measure that would cover expenses for the remainder of the current fiscal year.

The Governor has indicated he is becoming impatient with the lack of progress. He suggested recently that "It's time for us to get down to work."

The biggest road block to progress, by far, has been the massive job of reorganizing the executive branch of state government. That job, in the form of an amendment to the state constitution, was called for by voters in last August's elections.

An examination of the progress made in the Senate will illustrate the problems encountered in the reorganization task.

An interim Senate committee composed of leaders from both parties worked last fall in drafting a bill incorporating the suggestions of the "Little Hoover" commission on State Reorganization. The result was a 542 page document which weighed over seven pounds. Sixty- six hours of public hearings convinced the Senate Reorganization Committee that it needed to pare the bill down. The Senate committee substitute was still 272 pages long, and set forth in some detail the relationships between the governor, the legislature, and the department heads and employes.

Over 20 hours of debate were needed to iron out the wrinkles when the substitute bill reached the floor of the Senate. The Senators postponed work on any other piece of legislation before them in order to concentrate on the bill. Some 39 different amendments were offered, and various substitute amendments.

The area of most concern to the Senate was the section dealing with the Office of Administration, a new office created by the reorganization plan. The Senate seemed to be most concerned with the broad powers of abolishing and consolidating functions within the department, which took over the old divisions of planning and construction, budget, comptroller, and routine administrative chores of the governor.

What touched off the Senate's concern was the revelation that the Office of Administration had created a centralized public relations unit for the executive branch. This brought a clash between the Senate and the Governor which further delayed work on reorganization.

When the dust cleared, the Senate wrapped up work on its version of the bill, the result being approximately the same length as the committee substitute. The bill reserves for the legislature the right to approve or disapprove shifts of divisions and personnel within departments.

Gov. Bond is not entirely happy with the Senate bill. He argues that one of the big reasons for reorganization was to reduce the lines of direct authority to the governor from the present unwieldy 87. The Senate bill still leaves some 70 direct lines of control for the governor.

Moreover, Bond is not entirely satisfied with the provisions for legislative control of inter- departmental matters, and hopes to clear the matter up in the House version of the bill.

The House reorganization committee was far behind the Senate committee in reporting out a bill, but then the House bill totaled only 27 pages. It is a "type transfer" bill which merely shifts departments around.

Elections set for DAEOC board member

The Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corporation has announced that elections will be held to elect a member to the board of directors to represent the Board in Scott County on April 17 and April 24 at the Area Opportunity Center in Scott City and Sikeston. The election will be held between the hours of 6 p.m. and 8:30 p.m.

The Scott City Center and the Sikeston Center will each elect an area representative on April 17. Another election, April 24, from 6 p.m. to 8:30 p.m., will be held to select one person from the two people who receive the most votes in the election held April 17, which will provide the one elected board member from that county to represent the poor.

Those nominated for the elections must be from the low-income group, or their elected representative, since he or she will be the DAEOC Board representative of the poor from Scott County and must voice the problems of the poor to DAEOC in order to obtain programs to solve those problems through community action.

Meat prices out of sight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sirloin steak out of sight these days? It's rough all over, according to U.S. emissaries who checked supermarket prices in Bonn, London, Tokyo, Rome and other foreign capitals.

Beef roasts sold for $2.08 per pound in the West German capital in mid-March, about the same as in Washington.

And if misery truly loves company Japan's finest—Kobe beef—was selling to a limited clientele in Tokyo for $17.40 per pound.

The foreign meat prices were reported today by the Agriculture Department in its weekly publication, "Foreign Agriculture." Officials said spot checks were made of prices in 11 cities by U.S. agricultural attaches.

T-bone steak was reported at 85 cents per pound in Brasilia and veal cutlets at 67 cents. In Washington, the report said, sirloin was $1.69 and veal $2.29.

Parisian shoppers saw top round of beef at $2.57 per pound and veal escalope at $3.20, the report said. In Stockholm, porterhouse steak was $3.81 per pound and veal cutlets $2.82.

Sirloin in London stores was $1.88 per pound, with rump steak going for $2.25 to disgruntled housewives where rising food prices have fed labor union strife.

Bacon, currently about $1.19 per pound here, was bringing 96 cents in Brussels. Pork loin in Washington was $1.29 and in Tokyo it was $2.25.

Brazil had the lowest price for lamb chops, 58 cents per pound, compared with $2.19 here, $2 in Rome, $2.49 in Brussels, and $1.98 in Stockholm.

Poultry as an alternative? Broiler chicken, at 65 cents a pound in Washington, was priced at $1.67 in Tokyo; 48 cents in The Hague; $1 in Stockholm.

What's the law?

The case of the coiffeured soldier

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Buford reluctantly bought himself a convertible top. An Army regulation required all reservists with long hair to wear short- hair wigs, and Buford, who was in the National Guard, was coiffeured well past his ears. Considering the headpiece a nuisance, to say nothing of the mess it created with his coiffeur when he wore it, Buford finally attacked the validity of the regulation in court.

"While wigs may have been fine for Louis the 14th," he complained to a judge, "Louis didn't have hair as lovely as mine. And for me to have to wear a wig is an outrage."

"Legitimate Army matters," responded a U.S. Attorney, "may be determined only by the Army. Consequently, this court has no jurisdiction with regard to Buford's complaint. For practical reasons, the length of a soldier's hair is of real concern to the Army. As example, it could interfere with his wearing a gas mask."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you uphold the validity of the Army's wig- wearing requirement for National Guard Reservists?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that while the Army may have jurisdiction to determine "legitimate Army matters," what constitutes a legitimate Army matter may first be determined by the courts. And, noted the judge, consideirng that reservists spent so little of their civilian life in the Army, there is little reason to require them to conform to the haircut requirement. Should a sudden need arise to activate them, concluded the judge, there appears to be no shortage of either barbers or scissors to attain rapid compliance.

PRESTIGE OPPORTUNITY
Every so often, perhaps only once in a lifetime, an opportunity presents itself to the individual which may never occur again. Frequently, the person who has gained wealth, independence, respect, and security in his community through his business, has done so simply by virtue of being in the right place at the right time, and having at that moment, the common sense and timing to take advantage of his opportunity. How many times have we looked at others around us, seemingly more fortunate in life than we, yet certainly no more able or intelligent, and asked ourselves -- why that person? Many times the answer is -- being in the right place at the right time, or getting in at the beginning, or making a decision when a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity appears. We have that opportunity to offer to the individual who can meet our requirements. If you have the required minimum investment of $2500, and would like additional information, send your name, address and phone number to The Thomas Company, 1400 E. Touhy Ave., Des Plaines, Ill. 60018. Or, call, 312/298-7880.

Will is contested

BENTON — A petition to contest the will of the late Sallie Wainman, who died Oct. 25, 1972, has been filed in Scott County Circuit Court by her sisters and three children of her late brother, John F. Smith.

In the will, admitted to probate on Oct. 30, 1972, Mrs. Wainman left the major portion of her estate, valued at $207,165, to a great- nephew, Randy Wayne Grant of Sikeston. Another great-nephew, Jasper Grant, was named to inherit Mrs. Wainman's automobile and $2,000 for his education.

Plaintiffs in the petition are: Mrs. Jessie Grant, Mrs. Jeffie Phillips and Mrs. Ione Bell, all sisters of the deceased, and Mrs. Virginia Smith Graves, Mrs. Juanita Cook and John F. Smith Jr., nieces and nephew of Mrs. Wainman.

The plaintiffs contend that Mrs. Wainman was mentally incompetent and did not have the capacity to understand the nature of the will which had been written Aug. 26, 1968.

The petition also named a Sikeston attorney as a defendant. The attorney is executor of the estate, and the plaintiffs said that the deceased was under the influence, control and confidential relationship of trust and determination of the attorney.

A large portion of the estate is reported to be in real estate holdings in the city of Sikeston.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Arkansans historically are rabid football fans, and that's as true at election time as any other.

Frank Broyles, head coach of the University of Arkansas Razorbacks, never has sought political office, but in June he got a write-in vote for the Democratic nomination for Congress in Northwest Arkansas' 3rd District.

Deaths

GENE D. ALDRICH

SANTEE, Calif — Gene Davis Aldrich, 53, formerly of Sikeston, Mo., died Tuesday in a local hospital after a six- year battle with cancer.

He was born Sept. 27, 1919. He made headlines 31 years ago when he and two other Navy fliers survived 34 days on a raft at sea with no supplies or water.

On Jan. 16, 1942, he was a radioman on a Douglas torpedo bomber in the Pacific theater shortly after the U. S. entered World Ward II. The plane lost radio contact with the carrier from which it had taken off, ran out of fuel and crash-landed at sea.

For the next 34 days the three men survived on rainwater, fish and birds which Aldrich killed with a small knife. The raft was finally blown ashore by a hurricane on a small island near New Zealand. The fliers received prompt medical attention and returned to San Diego several weeks later.

Aldrich returned to Sikeston on May 6, 1942. A Gene Aldrich Day was held May 9. The day included a two- mile parade and ceremonies in American Legion Park downtown. About 10,000 people turned out to welcome him.

Aldrich had attended Dexter High School.

Their struggle to live is considered one of the most unusual survival stories of the war.

After the war, Aldrich returned to his home state of Missouri but settled in San Diego 15 years ago.

Survivors include his widow, Frances C.; two sons, Anthony and Gary of the home; a daughter, Mrs. Diane Zegler of Santee; four sisters, Mrs. Elmer Boyer and Mrs. Gaines Beck of Sikeston, Mrs. Walter Pastula of Struthers, Ohio, and Mrs. J. D. Gooch of Decatur, Ga.; four brothers, Everett and Hugh Aldrich of Sikeston, Roy Aldrich of Denver, Colo., and Earl Aldrich of Jackson, Tenn.; and one grandson.

Funeral services were held Friday in LaMesa, Calif.

Burial was in El Camino Memorial Park.

OVID RIDDLE

BLOOMFIELD — Ovid Riddle, 71, died Saturday at Dexter Memorial Hospital.

He was born Jan. 10, 1902 at Bernie. He was a retired farmer and attended the Baptist Church. He had lived in the Pyle community before moving to Bloomfield 26 years ago. On Jan. 30, 1946, he married Grace H. Griffin, who survives.

Other survivors include two stepsons, Lorenz Griffin of Las Cruces, N. M., and Rubin Griffin of Bloomfield; three stepdaughters, Geraldine Pennick, Mildred Magruder and Christine Magruder of St. Louis; and 11 stepgrandchildrenn and eight great- step grandchildren.

Services were conducted at 2 p.m. today at Watkins and Sons Funeral Home in Dexter with the Rev. Lyle Marr officiating.

Burial was in Sycamore Cemetery at Pyle.

ELEANOR WESSELER

DEXTER — Eleanor Wesseler, 85, died Saturday at Dexter Convalescent Manor.

She was born April 10, 1887 in Missouri. Formerly of St. Louis, she had spent nine years in the Green Meadows Convalescent Home.

She has no known survivors.

Graveside services were conducted at 10 a.m. with the Rev. Melvin Gainer officiating.

Burial was in Hagy Cemetery.

Watkins and Sons Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

dead.

There was evidence of a struggle at the scene and Williams' motorcycle was lying about 50 feet from the body.

Sheriff Ramsey said the suspect reportedly had been seen with the victim about 8:30 p.m. Saturday and surrendered to police about 1 p.m. Sunday. He and a girlfriend were returned to Portageville from St. Louis by his mother after the boy's father had located him at his mother's home in St. Louis.

A car reported stolen from the Cummings home, which was found on Interstate 55 south of Cape Girardeau, is believed to have been used by the suspect and abandoned. He and his girlfriend then hitchhiked into St. Louis.

Ballistics tests are being made on a pistol which is believed to have been used in the shooting.

The suspect has not given a statement to police and, according to Ramsey, no firm motive is yet known for the shooting. Ramsey, also acting as coroner, said no inquest will be held.

The body is in Sikeston for a pathologist examination and will be returned to DeLisle Funeral Home.

Laundry stayed behind

The Mississippi River's rapid rise near New Madrid in the past week has caused some residents of the area to make a hurried exit. The residents of this dwelling about two miles east of New Madrid on the levee road left their laundry hanging on the line. (Daily Standard Photo by Ron Jaynes)

2 levees break as rivers rise

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Two levees in eastern Missouri failed and flooding became widespread in the West Alton and Old Monroe districts early today.

State police said the levee on the Missouri River side of West Alton was overtopped at about 4 a.m. and broke shortly after. Water approached the town of West Alton—forcing the evacuation of ten to 20 families by boat.

Corps of Engineers and volunteer workers gave up sandbagging efforts in the area.

A Civil Defense spokesman said about 10,000 acres of farmland was being flooded.

The Corps of Engineers said the levee in the Old Monroe district along the Mississippi River was also overtopped early this morning.

A spokesman said the town of Old Monroe is not in danger at this time—but that thousands of acres of farmland is inundated.

Members of Missouri National Guard units were activated late Sunday to help civilian volunteers in their efforts to hold back the flooding waters of the Mississippi, Missouri and Meramec Rivers.

Two guard units, both from St. Louis, were called out Sunday evening on orders from Gov. Christopher S. Bond.

An engineering unit was dispatched to south St. Louis where River Des Peres, a drainage ditch, was forcoming some persons to evacuate their homes. A company of military police was stationed at Arnold, Mo., to assist local authorities in their efforts to prevent looting of deserted homes along the flooding Meramec River.

At Hannibal, where the Mississippi was to crest at 24.5 feet today, about 50 guardsmen were on duty to assist in sandbagging operations. Flood stage at Hannibal is 16 feet. Fifty more guardsmen were stationed along the Mississippi in Perry County, south of St. Louis.

"We're faced with continually rising river stages and all our levees are soaked to the core," Al Swenson, of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers' flood center in St. Louis said.

"As the crests come up, we're afraid they (the levees) are going to give way," Swenson said. The flood center has been in operation since March 3 when heavy spring rains and warm temperatures caused rivers in the midwest to overflow their banks. The situation worsened as the spring thaw brought more water to tributaries in the midwest.

Federal officials estimated that 6.3 million acres of land has been flooded along the course of the Mississippi and its tributaries.

Swenson said that hundreds of persons have been evacuated from their homes.

About 28 residents of Cedar City, near Jefferson City, were evacuated along with their mobile homes Sunday night following reports that the Missouri River there was expected to rise three more feet.

At St. Charles, where sandbagging operations began a week ago, the river was reported at 34.3 feet and rising. It is expected to crest at 36 feet Thursday, one foot below a record 37.3 feet registered in 1951.

An estimated 100 mobile homes near St. Charles were threatened Sunday night by the muddy Missouri. Residents were "advised" to move their trailers because a railroad embankment might give way.

West Alton, Mo., which lies between the Missouri and Mississippi rivers, has lost thousands of acres of farmland.

The Mississippi made its way into downton Alton, Ill., Sunday closing streets in the city.

Robert Ritz, deputy Illinois Civil Defense director, reported five families were evacuated from Grafton, where the town's main street was under water.

Only 50 of Kaskaskia Island's 200 residents remain and the only access to the island is by boat or helicopter, Ritz said.

Youth murdered

PORTAGEVILLE — A 16- year- old youth, Larry Allen Williams, was murdered Saturday night and a 16- year- old juvenile is being held as a suspect by New Madrid County sheriff's department and the juvenile officer.

The body of Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Williams of 201 W. First St., was discovered at 6:15 a.m. Sunday lying in a driveway of the Herbert Cummings home at 201 W. Fourth St. He had been shot with a .22-caliber pistol seven times — once in the right temple, once in the nose, twice in the right shoulder and three times in the back.

The shooting is believed to have occurred after 9 p.m. Saturday.

Sheriff W. L. "Cowboy" Ramsey said people in the neighborhood reported they had heard the shots, but had not seen anyone in the area at the time. The Cummings family was away from home.

Sunday morning a cleaning woman who works for Dwight Smith at a laundromat noticed the youth lying in the driveway. She told Smith, who lives across the street from the Cummings home, she thought the boy might be sick and need help. Smith then went to see about the boy and found that he was

Correction

In an accident reported in Saturday's edition of The Daily Standard, names of the drivers involved were reversed.

Jimmy Null, 24, of Sikeston suffered scalp cuts when a car driven by Charles Herbst, 19, of Cape Girardeau struck his wrecker as he was attempting to pull a vehicle out of a ditch.

The accident occurred at 2:30 a.m. Saturday two miles north of Chaffee on Route M.

Saturday's account of the accident incorrectly reported that Herbst was operating the wrecker.

Chicken is best seller

Meat boycott begins

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Spaghetti, macaroni, chicken and seafood topped the Sunday dinner menus for thousands of Americans on the opening day of a week-long meat boycott protesting high meat prices.

Most meat markets were closed on Sunday, so it was hard to judge whether housewives were crossing beef, lamb and pork off their shopping lists.

President Nixon announced last Thursday night that a ceiling on the price of all beef, pork, and lamb was to go into effect today. But leaders of consumer groups said the boycott would be held anyway because the ceiling would not be effective.

Although some New York restaurants reported patrons asking for more meatless dishes than usual, a spot check of restaurants in the Chicago area showed most restaurants doing a booming business.

"Right now we've got a waiting line of 20 minutes, and I've seen a lot of steaks going by," said Frieda Marianos, service manager at a Chicago restaurant where the best steak costs $7.50.

A random sampling of Detroit area supermarkets showed customers in large numbers were avoiding meat counters.

"We've been selling chicken, that's all," said Cheri Killingsworth, a meat clerk at a Detroit food store. An assistant manager at another chain store agreed that it was "really bad."

Joining the ranks of meat boycotters in Michigan was the Rainbow People's party, formerly known as the White Panther party. A party spokesman explained, "Meat prices are criminal, and we're in favor of all political action like this."

Dolly Cole, wife of the president of General Motors, said her family wasn't boycotting meat. She added, "But I really don't think we have steak more than once every two weeks or so."

Mrs. Cole said she cut up a leftover rump roast to make hash for Sunday dinner. She said, "We like hash."

In Waterville, Maine, Pat Gorman served her family of nine a macaroni loaf made with cheese, macaroni, tuna fish, evaporated milk, onions, eggs and pimentoes. Mrs. Gorman, who helped organize the Maine boycott, said, "My husband likes spicier foods, but the kids loved it."

"I kept telling the customers that free meat is nice, but that it won't be free next week," she said.

Annexation on agenda

The City Council tonight will reconsider a proposal calling for the annexation of 1,800 acres of land to the city when it meets at 7:30 p.m. in the City Administrative Building.

The proposal was tabled at the council's March meeting when a group of affected landowners complained about the annexation.

The tabled proposal called for annexing 1,200 acres north of the Jaycee Bootheel Rodeo grounds and two smaller tracts of land, including a 1,000- foot strip of land along Keystone Drive on which the Cummins Diesel Sales Corp. is located and the LaValle property along Highway 60.

Since the last council meeting, some of the property belonging to landowners who did not want it to be annexed has been dropped from the proposal and about 369 acres between the north city limits and Tanner Road have been added.

Other items facing the council tonight include an ordinance calling for the establishment of a Department of Economic Development in the city and a resolution on solid waste disposal.

The city will also accept a loan of $75,000 from the Board of Municipal Utilities that will help pay the city's share of the new recreation complex.

'BUTS' ABOUT
'LITTLE CIGARS'

Maybe those "little cigars" are not a whole 'nother smoke, after all. Maybe they are just cigarettes in a not- too- clever disguise.

The Federal Trade Commission has asked Congress to ban "little cigar" advertising from radio and television as it did with cigarette advertising. The commission said tests by its own laboratories and the Public Health Service indicated the "little cigars" were as dangerous to health as cigarettes.

Through the mindless, sexist television commercials for a particular brand of "little cigar," we have learned that the only difference between "little cigars" and the unmentionables is that the unmentionables are white, not brown.

The "little cigars," the commercials imply, help you get the beautiful girl (or be gotten by the ludicrously suave man if you are the beautiful girl). They improve your appearance, even if you are unspeakably good- looking to start out with. And they generally make your life infinitely better.

Just like cigarettes, right?

The formal government definition of a cigarette is a roll of tobacco wrapped in something other than tobacco. So the Little Cigar Council, Inc. — yes, Virginia, there is a Little Cigar Council — says it it "highly speculative" for anyone to think health hazards involved in smoking "little cigars" are similar to those involved in smoking cigarettes.

Sure, just as it is high speculative to think that the hazards involved in being run over by a blue car are similar to those involved in being run over by a red one.

A cigarette by any other name ...

That's not many, either, is it?

Since in recent months there have been a rash of breakins and burglaries in the city of Sikeston, we've heard that some neighborhoods have set up their own alert system in addition to police patrols.

Any strange vehicle or person is carefully watched and license plates are recorded along with other descriptions which could lead to an arrest. Some of the men, we are told, have acquired baseball bats to be used when necessary. Others have purchased more security devices and extra locks for their homes.

Sikeston police as well as the county sheriff's office need all the cooperation and assistance from the citizens they can get if the criminals are to be caught and prosecuted. We believe the courts should do more than slap a convicted person's wrist when he or she is sentenced.

RHYMES WITH ZILLION

To show how densisitized we have become to the words "millions" and "billions," especially in reference to dollars, a recent syndicated column reported the one - year earnings of a certain company at $88 billion.

Though this figure represents more than one-third the entire national budget and makes even General Motors look like a ma and pa basement business, it passed through several levels of copy editors and proofreaders and went unquestioned until it was spotted by the alert editor of a newspaper receiving the story.

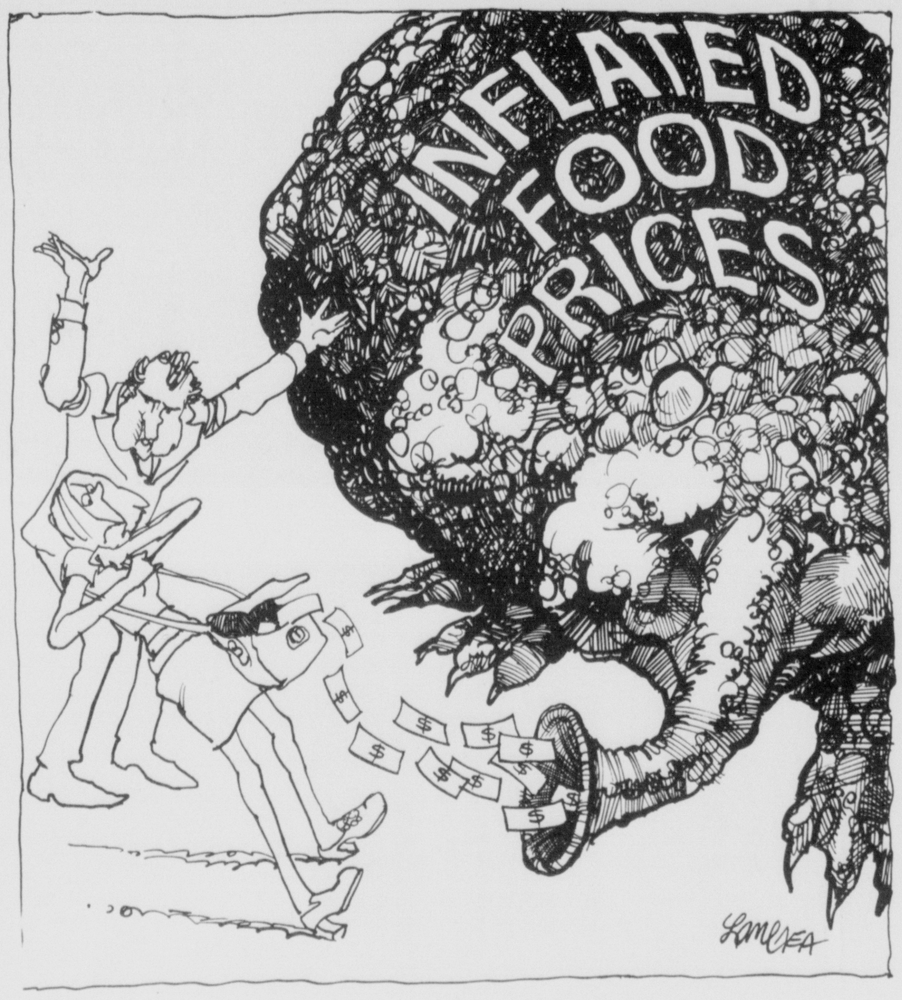

The source of the boo-boo was traced back to the writer himself, who had meant, of course, to type $88 million.

That's how desensitized we have become.

A new breed of college student — smarter scholastically, less radical politically and changed in other ways — is now moving onto American campuses, reports U.S. News & World Report.

Characteristics of the new student body appear from a comprehsensive study of the freshman class of 1972 just reported by the American Council on Education.

To get the profile, the council surveyed 307,656 young men and women who entered 527 colleges and universities.

One thing it discovered was that 62 per cent of the 1972 freshmen had average grades of "B" or better in high school. In the freshman class of 1968, by comparison, only 46 per cent of the students were in this category.

The survey also disclosed that political opinions are moderating. More than one third of the freshmen said they though colleges had been "too lax" in regard to campus protests.

In choosing courses, the council found students are turning away from science, engineering and education in favor of careers in medicine, public health and the law. One reason of this trend was the scarcity of jobs available in the scientific and teaching professions.

But if the trend away from science courses continues, the council warns, the country "may be approaching critically low levels for providing the educational base and scientific manpower needed to sustain the technology on which the economy is based."

The size of the freshman class of 1972 was estimated at 1,558,000, slightly less than the total first- time, full- time enrollments of 1971. Women made up 46.1 per cent of the class as compared with 45.6 per cent of the previous year. The percengage of black students also showed an increase from 6.3 in 1971 to 8.7 last autumn.

About 14 per cent of the new students come from families with incomes of less than $6,000 a year which indicates a continuing need for student financial aid. One third of the students indicated they would depend on part time or summer work as a major source of support while they are in college. About 22 per cent said they are relying on scholarships and grants as a major source of support.

Asked about public and social affairs, 90 per cent said they felt the Government was not controlling pollution and 76 per cent believed the Government was not doing enough to protect the consumer. Half of the students agreed "strongly or somewhat" that there were too many rights for criminals.

BE ON TIME

If someone, speaking of you, would say, "You can depend on him," or, "You can count on her," it is one of the highest compliments anyone can pay you.

There is a sure way you can command respect among your acquaintances, and that is to be known as being dependable. No matter what your ability might be, if you are reliable, this characteristic alone will take you a long way. Two things are important:

1. Always be on time. When you say you'll meet a friend some place at a certain time, be there. If school starts at nine o'clock, get there at nine; if dinner is at six, be ready to sit down at the table when the hour arrives.

2. Tell the truth and keep your promises. Never exaggerate. It is better, much better, to understate a fact than to overstate. Then your friends will soon say of you, "If he says so, it is so," and people will depend on what you say.

Friendships have been broken, partnerships have been dissolved, men and women have lost their jobs — all because they could not be depended upon.

See to it that you keep every promise you make. Make this a steady habit, and little by little you will become known as a dependable person. And to be dependable is the first step toward success in life.

THE HIGHEST ADVENTURE

An educational housecleaning is not only here; it is gaining momentum every day. It is true that too many recent high school graduates cannot read, nor spell, nor think, and these only partly educated teen-agers are having a hard time of it in college. Too many of them are "washing out" in the first year, and getting hurt badly psychologically for the rest of their lives.

Real teachers are men and women who have all of the three requirements for pounding knowledge and horsesense into young minds. First is for them to know what they are talking about. Second, they must have both moral courage and bull-headed persistence of purpose. Third, they must always have infinite patience and a genuine love for learning in their own minds and souls. No teacher has a right to own a teacher's certificate unless he also possesses the ability to give every mind that he touches a stimulating "smell of fire," mentally speaking.

The unpardonable sin for a free-minded man is to be "way ahead of his time" in attacking the school setup. If he wishes to be called everything except a scholar and a gentleman, just let him make a loud noise about anything that the "educated nut" stands for. The highest adventure in life is to be interested in the truth — and it also is the most fun!

YOU CAN HELP

In a world geared to accelerated communication, why do so many children fail at the most basic task -- reading? A tutor and remedial reading teacher, Jeraldine Stoute of Lubbock, Texas, analyzes the slow reader's background. "Let us look at the child of today. Soon after birth he is placed in a crib with an anticolic nurser while a mobile of colorful birds or objects hovers above to entertain him ... From here he is moved to a playpen furnished with 'educational toys' ... He cannot ask a question and receive an answer ... His next move is to an area about 36 inches from the TV set which also feeds him information of questionable value. Still, he cannot question or voice an idea, or receive a response ..."

It's a grim picture for the observer and a grimmer life ahead for the child. But there is a solution -- and you're part of it! Teacher Stoute continues, "I am convinced that if young parents would read to their children for just 20 minutes a day, there would be virtually no need for remedial reading classes."

EXPORTING POLLUTANT HELPS BOOST EXPORTS

Wood fiber, made from scraps and other waste which once were burned as an air pollutant or disposed of as solid waste, will now help improve the nation's balance - of- payments deficit.

Surplus chips from a number of companies are now being collected at a new $3-million Georgia- Pacific Corp. facility in Portland, Ore.

Japan is the major foreign chip buyer, it was indicated, and the first ship to use the new facility, the Zenkoren Maru, loaded 22,000 tons for that country.

Utilization of mill trimmings, low-grade logs and other once- wasted wood fiber will provide additional nanufacturing, transportation and waterfront payrolls as well as help stimulate better long-range timber management, it was pointed out. Burning such waste now creates air pollution problems in many areas.

A POSITIVE PROGRAM

Many months ago, President Nixon's proposed program for the construction of 300 new merchant ships of the most advanced design was announced to the public. The program is to extend over a 10 - year period and has been widely hailed as a long overdue step toward restoring U. S. maritime supremacy. It is well to keep in mind the substance of the new program and the necessity of its adoption.

More than a generation ago, a fleet of 2,500 U. S. war - built merchant vessels served as a "bridge of ships" that turned the tide of World War II. Since then, the state of the U. S. Merchant Marine has been declining, even as our stake in world trade became greater with each passing year. Leaders in the maritime industry, for more than two decades, stressed the folly of letting the U. S. merchant fleet pass into obsolescence and oblivion. Last year, while U. S. overseas trade hit a new peak of $73 billion, cargo carriage in U. S. ships dwindled from 57.6 per cent of the total after the war to 6.4 per cent. Foreign - flag transport of our commerce has increased from 42.4 per cent ot 93.6 per cent in post-war years.

It has been the threat of this growing imbalance to the security of the nation that has helped to stimulate renewed interest in a strengthening of the U. S. Merchant Marine. The result is the positive program now before Congress -- a program that should speed the teachnology of intermodalism and the concept of total transportation that has been in the process of development among leaders of the maritime industry for some years. Thanks to the vision of these leaders, we stand at the dawn of a new age in ocean transport that will give new meaning to U. S. sea power and will assure our country's place in international commerce.

POW RETURN

The prison camps of North Vietnam are supposed to be empty now. Soon all the U.S. fighting men once held in them will have been flown to the Phillippines and then on home. Citizens of Republic USA are enthralled with the television coverage of each stage of the return, as well they should be. U.S. pride swells at the sight of the proud and patriotic fighting men being reunited with their families.

One prisoner of war said in an interview upon his return home that he now had some misgivings about the war in Indochina. Not that he opposed fighting communism, he had done his duty as a military man, he said, but he wondered aloud why we were fighting communists in Southeast Asia but nothing to halt communism at home. This young man makes sense. For a half century and more, trained professional communists and their sympathizers have infiltrated various branches of our government, our churches and our civic and social agencies. Many citizens and people in high authority have ignored this infiltration. It is time that something be done about the internal threat of communism. It is even more dangerous to us here than abroad.

Perhaps our former prisoners of war will pick up the torch of Liberty and our No. 1 enemy. They did not hesitate to fight the Red foe abroad, even though their leadership at the top did not allow them to win on the field of combat. Here at home they can insist that the handcuffs be taken off and we can join them in this vital struggle to preserve the freedoms of Republic USA.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

WASHINGTON-- There is a shadowy sub- world where truth makes pallid even the most lurid fiction. Among these shadows, wraithlike men and women intrigue against each other in a fashion which would put Ian Fleming's literary sorties into the lawn croquet class. In a sense this is the final conflict between the Communist and non-Communist world. And it is fought, often enough, by labor men, working with corporate executives and national intelligence services across the globe.

We win some. We lose some. And there are some we could have won--- but lost. I can well recall Fidel Castro chuckling while relating his mountain rendezvous with the gentleman from the New York Times in the late '50s before he took power.

Castro chortled as he told some of us that the newspaper gentleman thought the 18 (or 16) men in the secret aerie were his bodyguards. Indeed, laughed Castro, "it was my whole army." A little money, a little "intelligence," some subsidy of the pre- Castro labor movement, might have saved thousands of men and women later executed by the bearded one.

There have always been undercover operations. We won many of them in post- war Germany, Italy, France. Labor and businessmen I've known have carried tens of thousands of dollars in cash to neutralize the equipment, presses, propagandist labor organizers, "centrals" and even killers planted by the Soviets, and later the Maoists, across the free world.

Why, then, is everyone so startled over the International Telephone and Telegraph Corp.'s offer to put a million dollars into Chile, via the CIA, to defeat Salvador Allende Gossens? America put a billion dollars into Chile to help its people. When I was there some years ago, I first addressed and later conferred with some 35 newspaper editors in Santiago.

They were knowledgeable, sincere men. They loved their impoverished nation. They wondered why the U.S. was so amateurish in battling Communist infiltration, Soviet subsidization of unions and the press. When I talked with anti-Communist labor leaders there, we near froze because their small headquarters had no heat in deepest winter. And all they asked for were a few autos so they could travel quickly north and south in their narrow land to compete with the Communist organizers who had a fleet of cars.

And I was told of the deep Soviet strength. Especially of one Communist who had been in the "International" with Lenin.

And there is Guyana, near British Guiana. The Soviets and Maoists poured money and undercover men into this small country on the northern coast of South America. And for a while the Stalinists and Maoists took it in the form of Dr. Cheddi Jagan. He took power, he purged. The CIA and some American labor men and industrialists went to the help of free men there. We won. Today it is a democratic nation led by Forbes Burnham, an anti- Communist ex- labor leader.

I can recall one of his colleagues dining with me in Georgetown, Guyana, gun on table. Said he, "I've taught my 15- year- old daughter to use one. We'll die fighting." Melodramatic? No, truth. Today free democratic Guyana is still under attack by Marxist forces allied to such strange elements as the Black Liberation Army headquartered in New York.

Of course, labor and business leaders work with their national intelligence services across the free world. Wouldn't be free otherwise. Pick at random, Ethiopia.

When I first got to Addis Ababa, the tiny labor "movement" had a pasteboard sign and two typewriters--- one from the Communists. Ask Ed Korry. He was ambassador then to the court of Emperer Haile Selassie. That was before Ed was posted in Chile. Ask him about Chile and Communist operations.

So we outmaneuvered the Communists and today the Ethiopian labor movement is not a vassal of the Soviets, as are powerful French, German, British and Italian federations.

Of course, the British Trades Union Congress (AFL—CIO) counterpart) works with its national intelligence service MI- 5 and MI- 6. Of course the German unions work with theirs. And what of the Germans' labor- based Friedrich Ebert Foundation? It has poured money and manpower into Africa and Latin America, working with Bonn's secret service, seeking influence for its nation in the labor movements and parties aboard.

I know little of what ITT wanted to do with its million. Or what CIA clandestine chief Bill Broe and corporate executives planned. But I do know that if American businessmen, financiers, labor chiefs and even a few intellectuals I used to call by first name had not moved against the enemies of freedom in underdeveloped and war-scarred lands we would have had a mighty tight little island of freedom.

So I suggest that the leaders of the Senate Foreign Relations Subcommittee on Multinational Corporations do what they believe should be done--- but certainly this must include learning what the enemy was doing.

And Salvador Allende is our enemy. His comrades long have tried to topple our own government. He knows it. He knows what his own secret intelligence operation has done. Why should we be ashamed of ours? Let the whole story be told.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
Watergate Caper Planned In John Mitchell's Office

WASHINGTON — Watergate defendant James McCord asserts the bugging of the Democratic National Committee was planned secretly in Attorney General John Mitchell's Justice Department office by Mitchell, White House counsel John Dean and Nixon campaign aides Gordon Liddy and Jeb Magruder.

McCord has given a written memo to this effect to the Senate committee probing the Watergate scandal. Quoting Liddy himself, the stolid McCord, who served as campaign security chief, sets the date of the meeting in February 1972 — while Mitchell was still attorney general.

In his memo for the Senate dated March 26, McCord says Liddy gave him considerable details about the chandestine Justice Department meeting. As McCord reports in his two-page initialed document:

"John Dean, Jeb Magruder, Gordon Liddy and John Mitchell in Feb. 1972 met in Mitchell's office at the Department of Justice and held the first formal discussion of bugging and related operations.

Carefully Planned

"Liddy had planned for the meeting very carefully and had drafted out in longhand budget figures for various items of expense, and had discussed them and certain details of the over-all operation with Jeb Magruder (who) reportedly set up the meeting with Mitchell."

McCord's carefully- worded memo says he believed Liddy was planning to send or handcarry the plans "to someone in the White House. I do not know to whom he took it."

As Liddy recounted it to McCord, the crucial Justice Department meeting was "set up for one particular day, but was cancelled, and reset for a day or so later."

McCord's statement says Liddy spent about $7,000 to have four-by-four feet charts drawn up for the meeting.

"The charts were brought in late one afternoon and left in (Liddy's) office on the 4th floor wrapped in brown paper. My impression was that they were commercially done...."

Hour-Long Meeting

The alleged conspirators gathered in Mitchell's office in the afternoon, as McCord recalled it and "from what Liddy told me it lasted an hour or more."

Liddy, according to McCord, said that the discussions at the Justice Department "covered the pros and cons of various bugging type operations. No decisions were made at the meeting.... but the impression Liddy had seem(ed) to be that the iperation would be approved."

Within a few days, "Dean told Liddy that a way would have to be worked out to undertake the operation without directly involving the Attorney General so that he would have deniability about it at a future date.

"Dean told Liddy at this time that the funding for the operation would subsequently come to him through other than regular Committee for the Re-Election (of the President) funding mechanisms so that there would be no record of it....."

Liddy said Dean told him "to destroy the ($7,000) charts but Liddy said that he had paid so much for them that he did not plan to do so....I never saw the charts.....

'Had Been Approved'

"About 30 days after the February meeting in the A/G's (Attorney General's) office, Liddy told me that the operation 'had been approved' .....My impression was that this word of the approval came from Dean, although this was not specifically stated by Liddy."

A few months later in June, McCord and four Cubans were trapped inside Democratic headquarters by city police. All five, plus Liddy and ex-White House aide Howard Hunt have been convicted in the case. McCord is now telling his story to the Senate.

Footnote: Mitchell, Magruder and Dean have all denied any advance knowledge of the bugging.

WASHINGTON WHIRL

Idle Choppers — We recently reported that hundreds of surplus military helicopters were sitting idly by in storage while police agencies around the country were paying through the nose for new police helicopters. We told how a bureaucratic logjam in Washington was prohibiting police agencies from obtaining essential information from the Pentagon so the aircraft could be properly certified and insured. After our story appeared, the Pentagon acted quickly to correct this oversight. The Pentagon has assured Rep. Ogden Reid, D-N.Y., that it will provide all available records on the surplus aircraft. Now, it's up to the Federal Aviation Administration, which has stalled the police agencies in the past, to make sure no new logjams develop.

Stag Party— Texas oil millionaire Cling Murchison's man in Washington, Tom Webb, threw a stag party the other night in honor of Attorney General Richard Kleindienst. Murchison flow in from Texas for the wingding, which lasted most of the night. Kleindienst left around 3:00 a.m., but some guests hung around playing gin rummy until 7:00 a.m.

Harlequin players do well in play

By MARY NOLEN

Three rich, spoiled stepchildren placed their stepmother in a sanitorium whi they tried to figure out a way to take her fortune in Saturday night's performance of "The Curious Savage" by the Sikeston High Shcool Harlequin players at the junior high school auditorium.

The play, written by John Patrick, is a comedy about a rich widow whose husband died and left her a lot of money which she wanted to use to open a memorial fund in his honor.

A promising young actress, Miss Jo Ellen Felker, played the part of the stepmother, Mrs. Ethel Savage, who, after being married for many years, only wants to do some of the things she has missed out on.

The stepchildren included Titus, the senator, played by David Ahlvin; Samuel, the judge, played by Mark Ahlvin; and Lilly Belle, played by Melba Gilliland. Each added to the entertainment by trying to figure out where their stepmother had hidden the fortune. Their only desire was to find the money and be rid of their stepmother.

Special commendation should go to Debi Cloud who played a convincing role as Fairy May, who stretched the truth to the point that no one believed her about anything.

Mrs. Paddy, played by Debbie White, was a pessimist who hated electricity. Her only lines during the play were spoken when she recited the things she hated.

Hannibal, played by Mike Marsh, tried to convince other patients of the sanitarium he was a perfectionist at playing the violin.

Other members of the cast were Florence, portrayed by Cathy Brown; Jeffrey, played by Wayne Noe; Miss Wilhelmina, Theresa Weathers; Dr. Emmett, Roy Sanderson; and John Thomas, Bobby Sanderson.

Cast, crew members and everyone who helped with the production of "The Curious Savage" are to be commended for a job well done.

Everyone feels some inferiority

By SHAREN HUNT
Area Home Economist

"He's better at everything. I might as well admit it." This is a familiar reaction of inferiority and resentment. It's common knowledge that all of us are inferior to others in some ways. Some are more athletic, graceful, better managers, or conversationalists, etc.

We should feel inferior in certain activities where others excel, but if we feel less important all the time, it might be because we don't feel superior in anything. Each of us needs to feel competent in something, and we also need to be recognized by others. But the truly wise person knows that in every area in which one is competent, there are others who can do just as well.

This conflict about comparing and competition can be handled by enjoying one's own abilities and also appreciating others. Always comparing oneself with the best of others can be exhausting, misleading and depressing. This often comes from overemphasizing our shortcomings, not recognizing our strengths and the tending to compare the best in others with the worst in ourselves.

For example: You approach a group and they laugh. You swear they're laughing at you. Or they stop talking and you're certain they were talking about you. You make yourself miserable and brood. You may condemn yourself or them.

Those who always feel inferior react to this imagined "hurt" in a child - like manner or don one of their disguises — domination - if you dominate others, they can't hurt you; self-pity, if you are afraid to express anger at others, this shifts blame for your condition to "them"; martyr, some feel the only way to get approval and exert power is to make others feel obligated because of their sacrificates, "After all I've done for you"; stubborness, giving in is seen as a threat.

Most of us feel some of these ways occasionally, but let's realize we all have feelings of inferiority and also that each one of us has special competencies.

"Frustration comes from not being yourself."

Youths observe FHA Week

Approximately 17,500 young Missourians will participate in the national observance of FHA Week which began Sunday and will continue through Saturday.

The Missouri members of the Future Homemakers of America will join half- a-million other members throughout the nation in the observance, focusing on the theme, "Explore Roles-- Extend Goals."

Missouri's approximately 340 FHA chapters will be exploring the many roles individuals play in the family, community and career life. The results of their efforts are active involvement in home, teamwork experience, vocational orientation, active civic and school projects, and growth in individual leadership.

The junior high and senior high youths will carry out special activities designed to share their experiences and accomplishments with family, friends and neighbors, according to Mrs. Chris Southers of the State Department of Education and state advisor to the Missouri Association of FHA.

"The week provides FHA members with an opportunity to spotlight the organization and its worthwhile goals and activities," says Mrs. Southers. "I think the theme-- Explore Roles-Extend Goals-- is worthwhile for all of today's youth who are striving to recognize their unique potential."

Mr. & Mrs. Charles Daniels

CANALOU — Cathey Fraley Porter and Charles "Chuck" Daniels were married at 7 p.m. March 9 at First Baptist Church. The double-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Fred Ritter.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Fraley and the granddaughter of Mrs. James Coppage and the late James Coppage, all of Canalou.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Daniels of Matthews and the grandson of Mrs. J. R. Daniels and the late J. R. Daniels of Matthews and Mrs. Clarence Peterson and the late Clarence Peterson of Canalou.

The sanctuary featured lighted candles and single tapers decorated with greenery. Large gingham flowers decorated the aisles.

Miss Jan Helms, pianist, played prenuptial music and accompanied Miss Anniese Huffstutler as she sang, "Little Green Apples" and "Color My World"

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length dress of green and white gingham with an empire waist. The bodice had an overlay of white lace and lace encircled the armbands. Her headpiece was a bow of green gingham ribbon, reaching knee- length, with babys breath attached to it. She carried an old-fashioned bouquet of white and yellow sweetheart roses and baby's breath.

Mrs. Greg Comer of Sikeston served as matron of honor and Carrie Fraley, sister of the bride, was junior bridesmaid. Mrs. Comer wore a floor-length dress of pink and white gingham and Miss Fraley wore a dress of lilac and white gingham.

A multicolored floral arrangement was flanked by two punchbowls on an accompanying table.

Mrs. Herbert Schuerenberg, Mrs. Terry Lape and Deanna Faber of Sikeston served at the reception. Mrs. Terry Lape of Columbia was in charge of the guest book, and Mrs. Herbert Schuerenberg of Sikeston greeted friends.

A rehearsal supper was given by the groom's parents at the Hickory Log restaurant in Dexter March 8.

The couple were honored with a shower given March 1 at Hearnes Elementary School in Charleston where the bride teaches art.

Mrs. Carpenter is chairman

NEW MADRID — Mrs. Caroline Phillips, chairman since 1967 of the Yard- of-the Month community beautification program, has resigned and Mrs. Virginia Carpenter has accepted the chairmanship.

Monthly recognition of outstanding yards from early spring through late fall is sponsored by the Women's Club to promote pride in the community's appearance.

Mrs. Phillips, who initiated the project in connection with the Community Betterment Program, said the cooperation from residents, judges and newspapers was appreciated in making the project a success while she served as chairman.

Outstanding yards and runners-up will be announced in April and continue through October.

Kay Cline describes death row, gas chamber

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another in the series of a wife's point of view of Jefferson City by Kay Cline, wife of State Rep. C. F. Cline of Sikeston, 159th District Democrat.

By KAY CLINE

During our tour through the Missouri State Penitentiary, we were conducted to the Maximum Security Building. Death Row is a cellblock within this building. It is located underground. To enter Death Row we went through three locked gates. Each gate was manned by an armed guard. The inmates are isolated one to a cell. There is a double row of bars, with the outside row of bars having chain link fencing woven between the bars.

Inmates sentenced to death are bathed, fingerprinted, photographed, given clothing and a physical examination. They are than taken to Death Row and put in an isolated cell.

Approximately in the center of MSP is the building that houses the gas chamber. While walking to the chamber, the prisoner, chaplain, warden and guards walk over a white cross painted on a cobblestone walk. Red roses from an arch over the walkway. The building is built of shaggy, cleft-rimmed rock. It is next to the industries (factories) complex.

The inmates pass the chamber every day going to and from work in the factories. The building is divided in half. One door is for witnesses who observe the execution. The other door is where the inmates enters.

The walls of the gas chamber are cracked and a few windows are broken. A phone on the wall comes directly from the governor's office. The inmate naturally hopes and prays that the Governor will call for a stay of execution.

On one half of the building are two cells. Each cell has one commode and one lavatory. The chamber is round and made of steel and glass. Inside the chamber are two steel chairs with straps to hold the condemned securely in position. The inmate is placed in the chair and strapped in.

When a prisoner is to be executed the chaplain meets the inmate at Death Row and continues with him to the gas chamber. He stays with him until he is strapped into his seat in the chamber.

A pharmacist from the prison hospital mixes the proper portion of the mixture. A guard places the mixture in position. The cyanide pellets are placed in a trap beneath the chair under the seat. The acid is placed on the floor under the back of the chair. The guard immediately leaves the chamber. When the guard is out, the door is securely bolted.

The warden pulls the lever for the cyanide pellets to drop into the acid and this forms the gas mixture. With the first breath, the inmate dies. The warden, doctor and witnesses watch the death. The doctor pronounces the inmate's death and fresh air vents are released to remove the gas.

Approximately an hour after the death, the body is carried out of the chamber. If the family wishes to have the body, they can have it for proper burial. If not, the MSP buries the inmate.

This may not be every entertaining reading, but this is what happens. The legislature has several bills pending on the death penalty. I hope this does not sway anyone's belief one way or another. I feel that the people of our state have a right to know how the gas chamber works.

Ann Landers

Ann reprints phoney letter

Dear Ann Landers: When you spoke to our group at Yale in February you referred to a very fishy letter that came from New Haven about ten years ago. You said it was that letter that first alerted you to the Yalees' unusual talent for composing phonies.

I was only nine years old when that letter appeared and although I was probably reading your column I had never heard of Yale. Would it be possible for you to hunt up that letter and print it? And incidentally, Annie, you aren't the square old bag many of us expected. You're a mighty cool chick who could lie about her age by 20 years and get away with it. Of course, I was seated toward the back. Please come again soon.--- Bow Wow Wow-'75

Dear Wow: Who cares where you were sitting? That was a nice compliment Thank you.

The letter you asked about appeared on February 27, 1964. Here it is:

Dear Ann Landers: My boyfriend and I have been going together for 41 years. I had my first date with Atherton after I graduated from Vassar in the class of 1923. He was in the Yale class of 1921.

My parents have never allowed us to go anywhere unchaperoned because they were afraid we might get into trouble. Father passed away in 1954 and it's awfully hard on mother to go everywhere with us, especially skiing. She fell last winter on a slope at Sun Valley and her hip never did mend just right.

Don't you feel that now, since I am 63 years old, and past the child- bearing age, that Atherton and I should be allowed to date without a chaperone? Please rush your advice, Ann. We are desperate.--- Impatient Lovers In New Haven.

Dear Lovers: Now that you are past the child- bearing age why don't you do your homework and stop bothering me with phony letters?

If you kids at Yale knew how much alike your group-constructed masterpieces were, you'd be thoroughly embarrassed. Get lost.

Dear Ann Landers: How can a 31- year- old wife and mother of three young children keep a spotless home, put gourmet meals on the table, chauffeur her mother- in- law and aunt around town, work in the church thrift shop, iron shirts like the Chinese laundry, and give three kids loads of love and the time and attention they deserve? And, oh yes, my husband has a lusty appetite for sex and I have to take care of THAT, too. Any bright ideas, Ann Landers?--- Just Plain Tired

Dear P.T.: That's quite a litany of activities, dearie. The only ones that require your personal attention--- substitutes won't do--- are the last two. So concentrate on THEM and go easy on the others.

Dear Ann Landers: Our daughter graduates from high school next year and has her heart set on nursing. My husband and I are proud of her but we are upset by an article that appeared recently in the Wall Street Journal. It said a career in nursing has many occupational hazards. Listed were back injuries from lifting heavy patients, diseases from infectious patients, hepatitis from cleaning test- tubes giving injections, and injuries from falling on the heavily waxed floors. True or false, Ann?--- Concerned In Baltimore

Dear Concerned: True. But the satisfactions of nursing certainly compensate for the occupational hazards. I know of no group that gives more-- and receives more--- in terms of personal fulfillment.

Students perform

Second, third and fourth grade students of Southeast Elementary School performed skills in folk dancing, manipulating scooter boards through obstacle courses and gymnastics for members of the Southeast Elementary Parent- Teacher Association at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the school auditorium.

The students were under the direction of Maxine Fakes and Felicia Fox of the music and physical education departments.

Attendance banners were presented to Maxine Choate and Betty Sheehy, third grade teachers.

TELEVISE THROUGH GLASS WALL

LONDON (AP) — A special all-glass wall developed in Britain makes it possible to view and televise squash games from behind the back wall.

The wall is made of plates of 1/2-inch toughened glass, which is as much as five times stronger than ordinary window glass of the same thickness.

The problem of reflections and sighting the ball against a transparent surface were solved by etching vertical, parallel lines into the inner, or court, surface of the lowest 2 1/2 feet of the glass. Most times, the ball hits the back wall below this level, the manufacturer found.

Busy schedule at SHS

Weather permitting, the four Sikeston High School spring sports will get into full swing this week with a slate of eight events scheduled.

BASEBALL

After three rain- outs, Coach N.P. McDaniel's baseballers will try to get the season under way as they host the Poplar Bluff Mules in a four o'clock ballgame Tuesday afternoon at V.F.W. stadium. The Mules are in their first year of baseball this year, and will probably face Sikeston's fireballing sophomore Kenny Stokes.

The remainder of the probably starting lineup will be John Leible behind the plate, Jim Saulter at first base, Bill Schatzley at second base, Rick Eisenbach at shortstop, Danny Nelson at third base, Donnie Taylor in left field, Greg Colwock in center field, and Rick Dyer in right field.

TENNIS

Coach John Heacox and company will be on the road for matches this afternoon and Wednesday against Cape Central and Kennett respectively.

The netment, despite squeaking past a tough Poplar Bluff tennis squad last Wednesday afternoon six matches to five, were not as impressive as they would have hoped. These two teams they will face this week are fine teams, and could stop the Bulldogs.

TRACK

Cinder action moves outside this week as the outdoor season begins. The varsity thinclads will go to Cape Tuesday to participate in a tri- meet with Cape Central and Kennett and to East Prairie Saturday to participate in the East Prairie invitational meet. Coach Jim Graham's tracksters defeated Cape and Kennett in the Sikeston indoor tri- meet two weeks ago, but with the outdoor season comes a list of new events.

Fourteen events will be on the outdoor porgram. They are; the shot put, the discus, the pole vault, the long jump, 100- yard dash, the 120- yard high and low hurdles, the mile run, the 440- yard run, the 880- yard run, the mile relay, the two-mile relay, the 880- yard relay, and the triple jump.

The freshmen cinderman will also be in action Tuesday as they go to Kennett to participate in a freshman outdoor meet.

GOLF

The 1973 golf season began today as the SHS squad hosted the duffers from Dexter. They are also slated to visit the Kennett country club Friday afternoon to take on the KHS golfers in a 3:45 encounter.

Coach Robert Buchanan's squad of three seniors, two juniors, one sophomore, and two freshmen are scheduled to play nine matches over the next 18 school days, which will leave little time for practice.

Brown among top 10

NEW YORK (NEA) — Bill Walton of UCLA and Ed Ratleff of Long Beach State were the top vote-getters on the 1973 NEA-NBA All-American College basketball team.

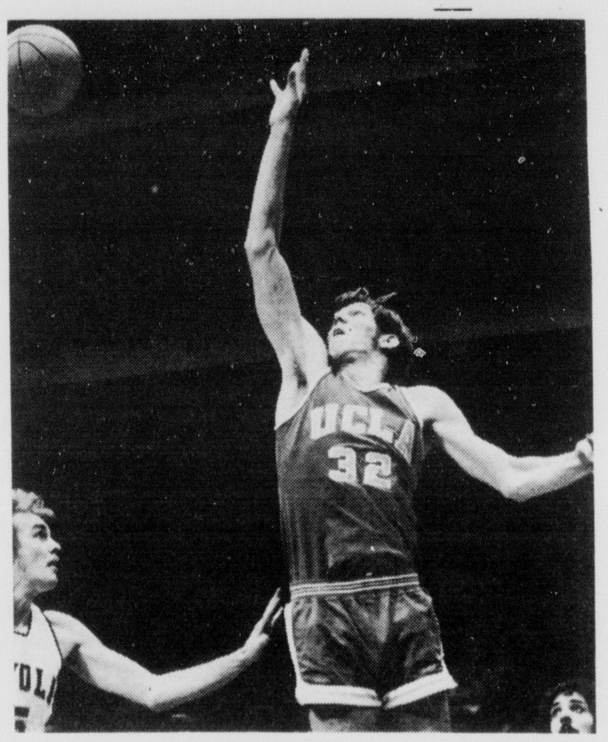

Walton and Ratleff received 16 first-team votes. The 17 National Basketball Association coaches who selected the team in conjunction with Newspaper Enterprise Association also named Doug Collins of Illinois State, David Thompson of North Carolina State and Jim Brewer of Minnesota to the starting five.

The coaches picked the players who were the best in the country, regardless of position, class or future professional potential.

The second team, in order voting, was: Ernie DiGregorio of Providence; Ron Behagen, Minnesota; Mike Green of Louisiana Tech, John Brown of Missouri and Dwight Lamar of Southwestern Louisiana.

There were only two honorable mentions. They were Keith Wilkes of UCLA and Tom Henderson of Hawaii.

Walton, the 6-11 junior center, and Ratleff, the 6-6 senior guard, are the only first-team repeaters. Lamar, the 6-1 senior guard, was a member of last year's first team.

SPORTS

Royals Retain String

Kansas City's fourth-place finish in the American League's Western Division in 1972 kept alive thyRoyals' string of never having finished below that position.

Rojas Needs Four

Cookie Rojas needs to play in only fourr more games at second base to chalk up 1000 for his major league career. The veteran has been with the Kansas City Royals for the last two and one half years.

Royals Held Edge Over A's

Cincinnati Reds could have taken a lesson from the Kansas City Royals in 1972. Kansas City outscored Oakland, 66 to 65, in their 18-game series in the American League regular season.

Mayberry at Home on Road

John Mayberry, who set a Kansas City Royals record with 100 RBI in 1972, did slightly better on the road than in Kansas City. He had 51 RBI away from the spacious Municipal Stadium in Kansas City.

Best Winning Margin

The 16-1 victory by Kansas City over Oakland on May 19, 1972, gave the Royals the biggest winning margin (15 runs) of their four-year history.

Drago Sets Record

Dick Drago set a Kansas City major league record when he struck out 13 batters in one game against the Minnesota Twins on May 24, 1972. Despite the feat, the Royals lost the game in 12 innings, 1-0.

Patek Ties Record

Fred Patek, shortstop for the Kansas City Royals, tied a major league record on May 6, 1972, when he participated in five doubleplays against the Baltimore Orioles.

Mayberry Has Longest Streak

John Mayberry had the longest hitting streak among Kansas City Royals players in 1972 when he hit safely in 14 consecutive games.

Royals have .500 Record at Home

In its four years in the Amerian League, Kansas City has played at a .500 pace at home by winning 159 games while losing the same number.

Schaal Nears 1000

Paul Schaal could reach the 1000 game mark at third base in 1973. He needs to play 133 games at that position to reach the plateau.

Royals Top Eastern Foes

For the second consecutive year, Kansas City had a winning season against the American League's Eastern Division.

Ali takes beating

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The $10 -million dream, which ended with an explosion for Joe Frazier, faded quietly for Muhammad Ali.

His voice quieted by a broken jaw and his manner subdued after 12 rounds with a younger, stronger foe, Ali stood in his corner Saturday and heard what he probably had guessed: he had lost, amazingly to Ken Norton by a split decision.

A few months ago, before Frazier walked into several of George Foreman haymakers in Jamaica, a Frazier-Ali rematch loomed that would outdraw their "Fight of the Century" and give Ali the chance to erase the only blot on his record and retire as champion.

Instead, the previously anonymous Norton, 28, now is the logical challenger to Foreman, while the future of the 31-year-old Ali is in doubt.

The broken jaw "shouldn't hamper his career," Dr. William Lundeen, the supervising ring physician, said after a 1½hour operation Saturday night. But Norton's trainer, Eddie Futch, when asked about a rematch with Ali, said: "Sure, if the money's right. But right now we don't need him."

Ali's trainer, Angelo Dundee, said Sunday that the boxer would be hospitalized "for two or three days" for the operation to wire his left jaw bone which was broken three-quarters of an inch apart.

Dundee said, "From all indications, he's going to be fine." He said "We've already talked and he asked how long it might be before he can get back in training."

Ali, who had won 10 straight since losing to Frazier, was a 51 favorite over Norton, whose 30 victims in 31 fights were even more obscure. But Norton helped even the odds by starting a rigorous training program Feb. 22 while Ali trained lightly until the final week.

Ali, who lost for the second time in 43 fights, earned $210,000 to Norton's $50,000.

Ali's jaw was broken early in the fight. Dundee, said it happened in the first round, though Norton didn't appear to land a solid blow in the round. Futch thinks it was in the fourth round.

"I can't fathom how he could fight," Lundeen said. The lower left jaw bone was broken clear through, he added.

But Ali, spitting blood, wouldn't let Dundee stop the fight. He showed slashes of his old style—one round of dancing and two of prodding, a jab that was quick but no longer stung. With one round left he still had a chance to win.

But in the 12th round, Norton trapped Ali in a corner for the sixth time in the fight and battered him with body and head punches, leaving no doubt in the minds of 11,884 fans, or of their hometown favorite. "I beat you, sucker," Norton said before the cards were read: 5-4 Norton, 6-5 Ali, 7-5 Norton.

Pitchers taking beatings

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Some of baseball's better pitchers tuned up Sunday for the approaching opening of the season but most were off-key.

Item: The San Francisco Giants rapped Oakland's Vida Blue for seven runs on 10 hits— including two triples and four doubles—in five innings en route to a 10-9 exhibition victory over the A's.

Item: The Milwaukee Brewers pounded Chicago ace Ferguson Jenkins for five runs in six innings and continued their 16-hit assault on Larry Gura for an 8-4 triumph over the Cubs.

Item: The Texas Rangers teed off on Kansas City's Dick Drago for seven runs and nine hits in four innings and held off the Royals 8-6.

Item: New York's Tom Seaver was supposed to go seven innings but was tagged for three runs and left after four innings because of a chewed-up mound in the Mets' 13-inning 43 victory over the New York Yankees.

Item: Pittsburgh's Nelson Briles shut out Cincinnati for four innings but Larry Stahl pinch hit a fifth-inning homer and, after a walk to Joe Morgan, Johnny Bench also connected as the Reds beat the Pirates 4-1.

Some others pitched well, but were simply outdueled.

Item: Ernie McAnally hurled eight innings of four-hit ball as the Montreal Expos blanked the Philadelphia Phillies and Cy Young Award winner Steve Carlton 3-0.

Item: Bob Gibson of St. Louis faltered in the second inning against three light hitters—Eddie Leon walked, rival pitcher Stan Bahnsen doubled and Buddy Bradford singled them both home—as the Chicago White Sox downed the Cardinals 2-0.

However, California's Nolan Ryan, Minnesota's Bill Hands and Cleveland's Steve Dunning came through for the pitchers' union.

Item: Ryan, who won 19 games last year and led the majors in strikeouts, allowed only two singles as the Angels nipped the Los Angeles Dodgers 2-1.

Item: Hands, acquired from the Cubs in a winter deal, gave up one run in seven innings as the Twins edged the Houston Astros 3-2.

Item: Dunning scattered four singles in six innings as the Indians blanked the San Diego Padres 2-0.

Elsewhere, the Boston Red Sox shaded the Detroit Tigers 6-5 while the Baltimore Orioles and Atlanta Braves traded seven home runs and 27 hits before they were halted after 14 innings by a curfew tied at 9-all.

Right-to-work, tax relief on agenda this week

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Missouri legislators will debate property tax relief, a right-to-work law and will get a message from the governor on welfare this week.

Both houses will reconvene this afternoon at 4 p.m.

Gov. Christopher S. Bond plans to deliver a message to the legislature Wednesday or Thursday, plus hold a news conference to discuss proposed federal cutbacks in welfare.

A governor's spokesman said the governor probably would not address the legislature in person.

The cutbacks are expected to be in the areas of old age assistance, with 95,000 Missourians receiving such payments; aid to the blind, 4,500; and aid to the disabled, 22,000.

On Tuesday, the Senate is expected to clear the decks for debate on "circuit breaker" property tax relief bill just as senators did when they debated government reorganization for six days.

The House has passed a bill giving tax aid to persons over 65—through a reduction in property taxes and state income taxes—who earn less than $10,080.

Both the Senate and House bills have similar formulas for figuring reductions, but the Senate bill would not apply to 65-year-olds earning more than $7,500 a year.

A resolution calling for a Constitutional Amendment saying persons could not be forced to join unions to keep their jobs will be heard Tuesday night in the House Constitutional Amendments Committee.

Rep. Vic Downing, D-Bragg City, introduced the proposed Constitutional Amendment as well as a bill on right-to-work. A hearing on the bill two weeks ago attracted over 1,000 union members opposed to the bill.

Downing's resolution would put the issue to a vote of the people.

While the Senate debates property tax relief, House floor action is expected to center on gasoline taxes for mass transit and increases in aid to dependent children welfare payments.

Wednesday night, the House Insurance Committee will consider a Senate-passed bill to have the state regulat the Blue Cross-Blue Shield health insurance plans.

Reorganization of state government will be discussed again Wednesday night in a joint House-Senate committee meeting.

Richardson supports bombing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense Secretary Elliot L. Richardson says the present Cambodian government would have trouble surviving without U.S. bombing support unless the Communists agree to a ceasefire.

The fall of Cambodia could threaten the security of the Thieu government in South Vietnam, Richardson said Sunday.

The secretary said U.S. bombing raids over Cambodia are justified because the U.S. aim "is to support a government with which we have been fighting, in a continuing effort to bring the fighting to an end."

As to the ability of the Lon Nol government in Cambodia to survive without American air support, Richardson said:

"I think it would be very difficult in present circumstances. They are facing a massive threat by well-armed, well-organized gurrilla forces, which include forces from North Vietnam itself. This is a situation which could be brought to an end if Hanoi observed in full the cease-fire agreements as they apply to the whole of Indochina.

"They could help bring this about simply by shutting off supplies and withdrawing their own forces from South Vietnam." The collapse of Lon Nol's government, Richardson said, could open up to the Communists routes for resupplying forces in South Vietnam and allow "the untrammeled use of Cambodia as a staging area for attacks against South Vietnam."

The continued bombing of Cambodia is aimed at bringing "about the earliest possible compliance with the ceasefire," Richardson said on NBC's "Meet the Press."

Survivor says more than 100 airmen were killed by angry militiamen

WASHINGTON (AP) — A survivor of North Vietnamese captivity says he believes more than 100 U.S. airmen were killed by angry militiamen and civilians after their planes were shot down.

"Well over 100 men were seen on the ground alive but never reached the prison system," Air Force Col. James H. Kasler said in an interview.

"We know that in the bombed areas an awful lot of men were killed by the militia. The North Vietnamese civilians were pretty irate."

Kasler, 46, of Indianapolis, Ind., credited regular North Vietnamese troops with rescuing some U.S. troops from lynching.

His estimate of the number of American fliers slain in this way was the first made publicly by any returned POW. He said his information came from downed air crewmen he met during the 6½ years he was held in the North.

In addition, Kasler said that 12 to 15 POWs who were taken into interrogation "never reappeared."

"I don't think they had any intention of killing us,' Kasler said of the North Vietnamese interrogators. "But they were so crude in their torture. And they were like mad dogs, they lost their heads."

Kasler said he believes three seriously ill men died of willful neglect.

He identified them as Air Force Maj. Earl G. Cobiel, Navy Cmdr. Kenneth R. Cameron, and Navy Lt. Cmdr. James J. Connell. Their names have appeared on a list of 55 American military men reported by the Hanoi government as having died in captivity.

Kasler told of what he called a "big escape purge" staged by the North Vietnamese in May 1969 after two U.S. fliers broke out of a compound and were recaptured.

"Between 40 and 45 officers got the treatment (torture beatings)," Kasler said. "The North Vietnamese tried to find out whether there was an escape committee. There was an escape committee, but so few people knew anything about it that the Vietnamese never were able to learn who was on it."

Treatment of U.S. war prisoners had improved after the United States stopped bombing North Vietnam in late 1968, Kasler said, but the escape attempt "gave them an excuse" to resume the abuses. The purge lasted about a month.

Kasler said a survey made by camp leaders among 351 POWs in 1971 showed that 95 per cent of them had been tortured and 40 per cent had been forced to live in solitary confinement for at least six months.

Farmers got more than producers during month

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prices farmers received for their goods in the month ended March 15 actually rose faster than producers' expenses, according to the Agriculture Department.

That left the March 15 parity ratio, a yardstick used to measure the cost-price relationship, at 86 per cent, one of the highest one-month marks in the past 20 years. The parity ratio, for example has not averaged 100 per cent for an entire year since 1952.

Although many, if not most, farm economists have discredited the old parity yardstick as a meaningful indicator of farm well-being. there are those who say it does tell a lot about the shape of agriculture.

The parity ratio, with the old 1910-14 cost and price relationship used as a basic standard, probably is most useful in comparing the situation from one year to the next, or in other short-range comparisons.

It also can be useful in taking a look at specific commodities on the same short-term basis.

In the March report, issued by USDA last Friday, the average price for all products listed rose 7 per cent, the most for a single month since October 1946. The 1973 index was 33 per cent more than on March 15 last year.

But of all the commodities listed according to parity ratio—many, including tobacco, peanuts and hay are not rated—only six were prices at 100 per cent or more.

Five of those were livestock animals and the sixth was soybeans. Here is how those stacked up on the parity scale:

—Beef cattle averaged $43.60 per 100 pounds on the hoof and were 107 per cent of parity. That compared with $40.50 in February, 100 per cent; and $32.40 a year earlier for 90 per cent.

—Calves averaged $58.20 per hundredweight and were 117 per cent of parity. That compared with $52.40 in February, 108 per cent; and $41.70 a year earlier for 97 per cent.

—Hogs averaged $38.30 per hundredweight and were 113 per cent; they were $34.20 in February, 102 per cent; and $23.30 a year earlier for 78 per cent.

—Sheep averaged $11.88 per hundredweight and were 103 per cent of parity; they were $10.40 in February, 92 per cent; and $6.78 a year earlier for 65 per cent.

—Soybeans at $6.05 per bushel were 132 per cent of parity; they were $5.49 in February, 122 per cent; and $3.20 a year earlier for 79 per cent.

Lambs came close, averaging a record high of $39.50 per hundredweight for 94 per cent of parity.

Highlights and Sidelights

Assembly in low gear

JEFFERSON CITY — The current session of the Missouri General Assembly is a little past the half- way point, and only one bill has passed both houses.

That bill, which would require all state agencies, boards and institutions to justify each expense of more than $50 in appropriations requests, is not expected to receive the Governor's signature.

Of the more than 300 bills introduced in the Senate, and 800- plus in the House, only a small number have been passed by either body. This is somewhat surprising since the legislative committees got a fast start on hearings this year. However, the pace has slowed in recent weeks, even as the legislative calendars have lengthened.

One measure of the slow pace has been the emergency appropriations bill requested by Gov. Christopher S. Bond. The House and Senate have bickered over some of the provisions of the bill, and as a result there has been no final action on the $16 million measure that would cover expenses for the remainder of the current fiscal year.

The Governor has indicated he is becoming impatient with the lack of progress. He suggested recently that "It's time for us to get down to work."

The biggest road block to progress, by far, has been the massive job of reorganizing the executive branch of state government. That job, in the form of an amendment to the state constitution, was called for by voters in last August's elections.

An examination of the progress made in the Senate will illustrate the problems encountered in the reorganization task.

An interim Senate committee composed of leaders from both parties worked last fall in drafting a bill incorporating the suggestions of the "Little Hoover" commission on State Reorganization. The result was a 542 page document which weighed over seven pounds. Sixty- six hours of public hearings convinced the Senate Reorganization Committee that it needed to pare the bill down. The Senate committee substitute was still 272 pages long, and set forth in some detail the relationships between the governor, the legislature, and the department heads and employes.

Over 20 hours of debate were needed to iron out the wrinkles when the substitute bill reached the floor of the Senate. The Senators postponed work on any other piece of legislation before them in order to concentrate on the bill. Some 39 different amendments were offered, and various substitute amendments.

The area of most concern to the Senate was the section dealing with the Office of Administration, a new office created by the reorganization plan. The Senate seemed to be most concerned with the broad powers of abolishing and consolidating functions within the department, which took over the old divisions of planning and construction, budget, comptroller, and routine administrative chores of the governor.

What touched off the Senate's concern was the revelation that the Office of Administration had created a centralized public relations unit for the executive branch. This brought a clash between the Senate and the Governor which further delayed work on reorganization.

When the dust cleared, the Senate wrapped up work on its version of the bill, the result being approximately the same length as the committee substitute. The bill reserves for the legislature the right to approve or disapprove shifts of divisions and personnel within departments.

Gov. Bond is not entirely happy with the Senate bill. He argues that one of the big reasons for reorganization was to reduce the lines of direct authority to the governor from the present unwieldy 87. The Senate bill still leaves some 70 direct lines of control for the governor.

Moreover, Bond is not entirely satisfied with the provisions for legislative control of inter- departmental matters, and hopes to clear the matter up in the House version of the bill.

The House reorganization committee was far behind the Senate committee in reporting out a bill, but then the House bill totaled only 27 pages. It is a "type transfer" bill which merely shifts departments around.

Elections set for DAEOC board member

The Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corporation has announced that elections will be held to elect a member to the board of directors to represent the Board in Scott County on April 17 and April 24 at the Area Opportunity Center in Scott City and Sikeston. The election will be held between the hours of 6 p.m. and 8:30 p.m.

The Scott City Center and the Sikeston Center will each elect an area representative on April 17. Another election, April 24, from 6 p.m. to 8:30 p.m., will be held to select one person from the two people who receive the most votes in the election held April 17, which will provide the one elected board member from that county to represent the poor.

Those nominated for the elections must be from the low-income group, or their elected representative, since he or she will be the DAEOC Board representative of the poor from Scott County and must voice the problems of the poor to DAEOC in order to obtain programs to solve those problems through community action.

Meat prices out of sight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sirloin steak out of sight these days? It's rough all over, according to U.S. emissaries who checked supermarket prices in Bonn, London, Tokyo, Rome and other foreign capitals.

Beef roasts sold for $2.08 per pound in the West German capital in mid-March, about the same as in Washington.

And if misery truly loves company Japan's finest—Kobe beef—was selling to a limited clientele in Tokyo for $17.40 per pound.

The foreign meat prices were reported today by the Agriculture Department in its weekly publication, "Foreign Agriculture." Officials said spot checks were made of prices in 11 cities by U.S. agricultural attaches.

T-bone steak was reported at 85 cents per pound in Brasilia and veal cutlets at 67 cents. In Washington, the report said, sirloin was $1.69 and veal $2.29.

Parisian shoppers saw top round of beef at $2.57 per pound and veal escalope at $3.20, the report said. In Stockholm, porterhouse steak was $3.81 per pound and veal cutlets $2.82.

Sirloin in London stores was $1.88 per pound, with rump steak going for $2.25 to disgruntled housewives where rising food prices have fed labor union strife.

Bacon, currently about $1.19 per pound here, was bringing 96 cents in Brussels. Pork loin in Washington was $1.29 and in Tokyo it was $2.25.

Brazil had the lowest price for lamb chops, 58 cents per pound, compared with $2.19 here, $2 in Rome, $2.49 in Brussels, and $1.98 in Stockholm.

Poultry as an alternative? Broiler chicken, at 65 cents a pound in Washington, was priced at $1.67 in Tokyo; 48 cents in The Hague; $1 in Stockholm.

What's the law?

The case of the coiffeured soldier

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Buford reluctantly bought himself a convertible top. An Army regulation required all reservists with long hair to wear short- hair wigs, and Buford, who was in the National Guard, was coiffeured well past his ears. Considering the headpiece a nuisance, to say nothing of the mess it created with his coiffeur when he wore it, Buford finally attacked the validity of the regulation in court.

"While wigs may have been fine for Louis the 14th," he complained to a judge, "Louis didn't have hair as lovely as mine. And for me to have to wear a wig is an outrage."

"Legitimate Army matters," responded a U.S. Attorney, "may be determined only by the Army. Consequently, this court has no jurisdiction with regard to Buford's complaint. For practical reasons, the length of a soldier's hair is of real concern to the Army. As example, it could interfere with his wearing a gas mask."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you uphold the validity of the Army's wig- wearing requirement for National Guard Reservists?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that while the Army may have jurisdiction to determine "legitimate Army matters," what constitutes a legitimate Army matter may first be determined by the courts. And, noted the judge, consideirng that reservists spent so little of their civilian life in the Army, there is little reason to require them to conform to the haircut requirement. Should a sudden need arise to activate them, concluded the judge, there appears to be no shortage of either barbers or scissors to attain rapid compliance.

PRESTIGE OPPORTUNITY
Every so often, perhaps only once in a lifetime, an opportunity presents itself to the individual which may never occur again. Frequently, the person who has gained wealth, independence, respect, and security in his community through his business, has done so simply by virtue of being in the right place at the right time, and having at that moment, the common sense and timing to take advantage of his opportunity. How many times have we looked at others around us, seemingly more fortunate in life than we, yet certainly no more able or intelligent, and asked ourselves -- why that person? Many times the answer is -- being in the right place at the right time, or getting in at the beginning, or making a decision when a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity appears. We have that opportunity to offer to the individual who can meet our requirements. If you have the required minimum investment of $2500, and would like additional information, send your name, address and phone number to The Thomas Company, 1400 E. Touhy Ave., Des Plaines, Ill. 60018. Or, call, 312/298-7880.

Will is contested

BENTON — A petition to contest the will of the late Sallie Wainman, who died Oct. 25, 1972, has been filed in Scott County Circuit Court by her sisters and three children of her late brother, John F. Smith.

In the will, admitted to probate on Oct. 30, 1972, Mrs. Wainman left the major portion of her estate, valued at $207,165, to a great- nephew, Randy Wayne Grant of Sikeston. Another great-nephew, Jasper Grant, was named to inherit Mrs. Wainman's automobile and $2,000 for his education.

Plaintiffs in the petition are: Mrs. Jessie Grant, Mrs. Jeffie Phillips and Mrs. Ione Bell, all sisters of the deceased, and Mrs. Virginia Smith Graves, Mrs. Juanita Cook and John F. Smith Jr., nieces and nephew of Mrs. Wainman.

The plaintiffs contend that Mrs. Wainman was mentally incompetent and did not have the capacity to understand the nature of the will which had been written Aug. 26, 1968.

The petition also named a Sikeston attorney as a defendant. The attorney is executor of the estate, and the plaintiffs said that the deceased was under the influence, control and confidential relationship of trust and determination of the attorney.

A large portion of the estate is reported to be in real estate holdings in the city of Sikeston.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Arkansans historically are rabid football fans, and that's as true at election time as any other.

Frank Broyles, head coach of the University of Arkansas Razorbacks, never has sought political office, but in June he got a write-in vote for the Democratic nomination for Congress in Northwest Arkansas' 3rd District.

Deaths

GENE D. ALDRICH

SANTEE, Calif — Gene Davis Aldrich, 53, formerly of Sikeston, Mo., died Tuesday in a local hospital after a six- year battle with cancer.

He was born Sept. 27, 1919. He made headlines 31 years ago when he and two other Navy fliers survived 34 days on a raft at sea with no supplies or water.

On Jan. 16, 1942, he was a radioman on a Douglas torpedo bomber in the Pacific theater shortly after the U. S. entered World Ward II. The plane lost radio contact with the carrier from which it had taken off, ran out of fuel and crash-landed at sea.

For the next 34 days the three men survived on rainwater, fish and birds which Aldrich killed with a small knife. The raft was finally blown ashore by a hurricane on a small island near New Zealand. The fliers received prompt medical attention and returned to San Diego several weeks later.

Aldrich returned to Sikeston on May 6, 1942. A Gene Aldrich Day was held May 9. The day included a two- mile parade and ceremonies in American Legion Park downtown. About 10,000 people turned out to welcome him.

Aldrich had attended Dexter High School.

Their struggle to live is considered one of the most unusual survival stories of the war.

After the war, Aldrich returned to his home state of Missouri but settled in San Diego 15 years ago.

Survivors include his widow, Frances C.; two sons, Anthony and Gary of the home; a daughter, Mrs. Diane Zegler of Santee; four sisters, Mrs. Elmer Boyer and Mrs. Gaines Beck of Sikeston, Mrs. Walter Pastula of Struthers, Ohio, and Mrs. J. D. Gooch of Decatur, Ga.; four brothers, Everett and Hugh Aldrich of Sikeston, Roy Aldrich of Denver, Colo., and Earl Aldrich of Jackson, Tenn.; and one grandson.

Funeral services were held Friday in LaMesa, Calif.

Burial was in El Camino Memorial Park.

OVID RIDDLE

BLOOMFIELD — Ovid Riddle, 71, died Saturday at Dexter Memorial Hospital.

He was born Jan. 10, 1902 at Bernie. He was a retired farmer and attended the Baptist Church. He had lived in the Pyle community before moving to Bloomfield 26 years ago. On Jan. 30, 1946, he married Grace H. Griffin, who survives.

Other survivors include two stepsons, Lorenz Griffin of Las Cruces, N. M., and Rubin Griffin of Bloomfield; three stepdaughters, Geraldine Pennick, Mildred Magruder and Christine Magruder of St. Louis; and 11 stepgrandchildrenn and eight great- step grandchildren.

Services were conducted at 2 p.m. today at Watkins and Sons Funeral Home in Dexter with the Rev. Lyle Marr officiating.

Burial was in Sycamore Cemetery at Pyle.

ELEANOR WESSELER

DEXTER — Eleanor Wesseler, 85, died Saturday at Dexter Convalescent Manor.

She was born April 10, 1887 in Missouri. Formerly of St. Louis, she had spent nine years in the Green Meadows Convalescent Home.

She has no known survivors.

Graveside services were conducted at 10 a.m. with the Rev. Melvin Gainer officiating.

Burial was in Hagy Cemetery.

Watkins and Sons Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

dead.

There was evidence of a struggle at the scene and Williams' motorcycle was lying about 50 feet from the body.

Sheriff Ramsey said the suspect reportedly had been seen with the victim about 8:30 p.m. Saturday and surrendered to police about 1 p.m. Sunday. He and a girlfriend were returned to Portageville from St. Louis by his mother after the boy's father had located him at his mother's home in St. Louis.

A car reported stolen from the Cummings home, which was found on Interstate 55 south of Cape Girardeau, is believed to have been used by the suspect and abandoned. He and his girlfriend then hitchhiked into St. Louis.

Ballistics tests are being made on a pistol which is believed to have been used in the shooting.

The suspect has not given a statement to police and, according to Ramsey, no firm motive is yet known for the shooting. Ramsey, also acting as coroner, said no inquest will be held.

The body is in Sikeston for a pathologist examination and will be returned to DeLisle Funeral Home.
